NAZIS GAIN FOOTHOLD IN CAUCASUS

VICHY OBJECTS TO RELATIONS WITH FRENCH

Protests Assignment of Military Representatives to Gen. DeGaulle.

By The Associated Press

VICHY, July 16—The Vichy government officially protested today to Washington against assignment of military representatives to Gen. Charles De Gaulle, declaring this "constitutes an attack on the sovereignty of France."

An authorized source declared it was "inadmissible" that the American government, which is maintaining normal relations with the French government, also maintain relations with a rebel force.

(The United States department of state announced July 9 that Admiral Harold R. Stark and Brig. Gen. Charles L. Bolte had been assigned to consult in London with the national committee of the Fighting French headed by General De Gaulle "on all matters relating to the conduct of the war."

(The announcement and an accompanying memorandum stressed that the purpose was to strengthen military aid to the Fighting French, and did not refer to the controversy over diplomatic recognition, which the United States has not given the De Gaulle organization.)

The protest was announced pending publication of the French stand concerning French warships interned at Alexandria.

(The state department announced in Washington two days ago that Vichy had already rejected two proposals by President Roosevelt for removal of the nine demilitarized French naval vessels from the Egyptian war zone.

(President Roosevelt proposed that the ships be moved through the Suez Canal under American custody to some American or neutral port for internment until after the war, when they would be returned to France. When this plan was rejected, he suggested that the ships be sent under U. S. protective custody to Martinique, French West Indian island, for demobilization.

(Vichy was warned that rejection would justify the British in ordering the ships moved or in destroying them if removal orders were not heeded).

French papers for the first time published today parts of a statement by Acting U. S. Secretary of State Sumner Welles on negotiations over the French naval squadron, but cautiously refrained from all comment while awaiting publication by Chief of Government Laval of details of the negotiations.

The French-German armistice convention provided that all French naval united must put into continental French ports, where they would be left untouched by the Axis powers.

(With only Adolf Hitler's word that he would not use the French warships, the British, by agreement with the French commandant, interned the vessels that happened to be at Alexandria when France collapsed, and returned to France all seamen who did not wish to remain with their ships or to join De Gaulle.)

French papers were authorized to publish four pages tomorrow, instead of the regulation single sheet, in order to make room for the government communication, expected this evening, on the Alexandria squadron.

DISPUTE STOPS WORK AT ALLOY STEEL CO.

Virtually All of Plant's Force of 150 Men Idle.

The Alloy Cast Steel Co. on Rose avenue, one of the group of Ozmun Co. plants, was idle today with virtually all of the company's approximately 150 employes off work.

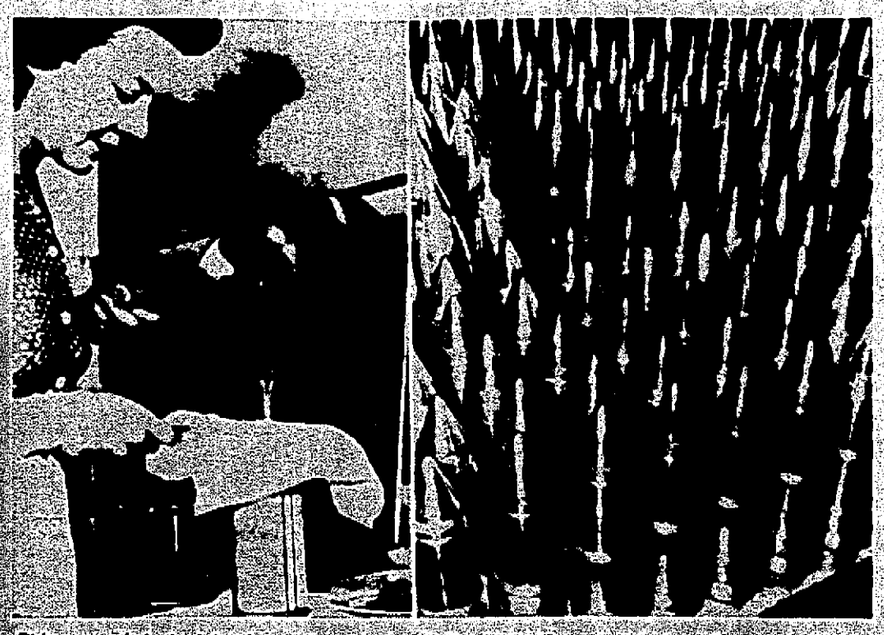
Neither M. C. McNeil, president of the company, nor Ellis Oiler, president of Local 1947, United Steelworkers of America, would issue any statement today regarding the situation.

It was understood that work was suspended about 12:30 p. m. yesterday and that the plant has been at a virtual standstill since that time. It also was understood another labor question was involved, but whether Mr. McNeil nor Mr. Oiler would say whether a conference in progress.

Several automobile loads of workers were parked near the plant entrance this morning. Mr. Oiler said the union committee would meet this afternoon and possibly might have a statement afterward.

Although neither side would discuss the situation, it is generally known that the bulk of the company's operations are now devoted to war work.

SAVE GREASE AND MAKE IT HOT FOR THE AXIS



This young lady is doing her part to help defeat the Axis. She's saving meat grease which can be made into nitroglycerin for use in shells. The grease should be strained through gauze into a can to remove impurities and meat scraps, and then turned over to the local butcher. He in turn will see that it goes to a plant that makes explosive shells.

NEW SALVAGE DRIVE OPENS

Committee To Start Collection of Fats and Metal To Aid War Effort.

A clean sweep of all the metals that can be salvaged and the launching of a fat salvage program for the duration of the war will be the next step in the city's participation of the nation's all-out salvage for victory program. Plans for the two drives were made at a meeting of the Marion City Salvaging committee last night in the municipal court room.

Clyde C. Caldwell and George Alber are co-chairmen of the salvage committee. Mrs. J. E. Frew was named chairman of the fats salvaging committee and serving with her are Miss Edith Treat and Major Joseph Heard. The committee, which will be enlarged, will be announced soon.

The seriousness of the shortage of scrap metal and the part waste fats can play in the manufacture of explosives were emphasized in the discussions and plans were made to get both drives under way immediately. The committee will meet again in one week.

While the drive for the collection of rubber still is being carried on, the next few weeks will be devoted to emphasizing the salvaging of the metals and fats. Like the necessity for carrying on the salvaging of rubber, the drive for fats and metals will be for the duration, it was pointed out.

Save All Fat!

Don't throw away a single drop of used cooking fat, bacon grease, meat drippings, frying fats—every kind you use, is Mrs. Frew's message to housewives. Fats make glycerine and glycerine makes explosives—millions of pounds are needed and housewives of Marion and the entire country can help supply them.

According to plans, the fats saved by the housewives will be taken to meat dealers who are cooperating patriotically in the drive, and a nominal price will be paid. Just what the price will be here will be announced in a few days, the committee said. The important point is to start saving immediately, and then keep on saving fats, Mrs. Frew said.

Marion Seaman Suffers Wounds Aboard Yorktown

A Marion sailor was wounded in action when the aircraft carrier Yorktown was put out of action in the battle of Midway, it was revealed today.

He is Don McGrath, seaman second class, son of Mrs. Betty McGrath of 140 North Main street.

Mrs. McGrath received a letter from the navy department Monday that her son was injured, but did not reveal the information until the navy department yesterday officially announced the disabling of the Yorktown.

McGrath was transferred to the Yorktown when the U. S. S. Simms was sunk. His last letter to his mother, dated May 17, was written from the Yorktown.

Following is the navy department's letter to Mrs. McGrath sent by Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel.

"The navy department deeply regrets to inform you that your son, Donald Michael McGrath, was wounded in action on June 4. He was transferred to the United States Mobile hospital at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and you may rest assured that he is receiving the best of medical care.

"The extent of his wounds are not known by this bureau, but since no further report has been received and upon consideration of the time which has elapsed, it is presumed that he is recovering.

"He will probably correspond with you at his earliest opportunity. You may write him in care of that hospital.

The navy department joins you in wishing him a speedy recovery."

U. S. MILITARY COURT HEARS SLAYING CASE

American Soldier in Australia Reportedly Gives Confession.

By The Associated Press

MELBOURNE, July 16 — A United States military court, trying Private Edward J. Leonski for the slaying of three Melbourne women, accepted in evidence today a purported confession of guilt which army officers said the former New York grocery clerk had signed in their presence.

The court also heard a soldier, who said he and Leonski were "good camp friends," testify the defendant had told him he committed two of the killings.

The witness said that on the night of May 9—the night during which Mrs. Pauline Buchan Thompson was slain near an American camp—he saw Leonski standing before his tent weeping and apparently drunk.

"I asked him what was the matter," the soldier testified, "and he said: 'I killed, I killed.'"

Leonski later told him he had committed the first two murders and described himself as "Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." He told me not to say anything to the police, the witness said.

REQUEST WAGE STABILIZATION

Administration Reported Asking New Legislation To Tie Up with Price Control.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 16 — Threatened with a partial collapse of the price control system, the administration was reported today to be preparing a request for new legislation built around some form of wage stabilization.

President Roosevelt has discussed the situation with congressional leaders several times in recent weeks. Informed congressmen who declined quotations by name said the President was about to make known the remedial steps he and price control officials believe should be taken.

As a result, members of congress who had been looking forward to a recess of several weeks starting in about ten days were being told they might have to revise their plans.

Rising farm prices, which have not yet reached the statutory ceiling in the basic price control act, already have caused Leon Henderson, price administrator, to raise the ceiling on canned and dried fruits. Sporadic increases in wages, in the cost of raw products and in other miscellaneous costs such as transportation have made an "extremely tight" situation with reference to many other ceilings, the congressional sources said.

Henderson told a house committee yesterday the price control program was in danger of breaking down and that wage control was the next thing over the horizon.

There was no immediate indication of the nature of specific proposals Mr. Roosevelt might have in mind but it was reported that one would deal with "freezing" wages at the present levels. This would block requests for increased pay to compensate for rising costs of living.

The senate voted yesterday to give Henderson $125,000,000 to operate his agency this fiscal year as against $75,000,000 approved by the house and $140,000,000 suggested by the price administrator at his "rock bottom" figure.

It also retained a ban against using OPA funds for subsidies to business to enforce price ceilings.

But it let Henderson retain a free hand in making appointments and removed some proposed new restrictions on his authority to fix price ceilings for processed farm commodities.

On the farm price question it merely restated existing law providing that farm prices could not be fixed below 110 per cent of parity and that price ceilings for processed farm commodities reflect the 110 per cent of parity to the original grower.

The senate resumed to-morrow a final vote on the bill today.

District Boy Scout Head Former Ohio State Track Star

Long legs as part of a six-foot-two-inch framework provide a pretty good start for the development of a top-flight distance runner.

Because he was ushered into this world with the "longer than usual" appendages which mark him as one of the town's tallest men, Fred Strother reaped huge rewards as a high school and later collegiate track sensation. However, the long legs which caused him to be dubbed a "string bean" by other youths at home later made possible his blaze of glory for three years as one of the nation's best milers.

Widely known in Marion and nearby counties as Harding area executive of the Boy Scouts of America, Mr. Strother is remembered on the Ohio State university campus as a member of the quarter which set a world's record of 3:21.7 in the sprint medley relay event of the 1931 running of the Penn Relays in Philadelphia.

Incidentally he is not regarded as "tall" by his townspeople of Beaver, Pa. "Why, it isn't anything to find a six-foot five-or-six inch guy around there," he said. Beaver was recently selected as a site for a $3,000,000 Curtiss-Wright propeller plant.

Was High School Star

Mr. Strother first broke into the track and field spotlight as a high school track ace on the Beaver High school team. Wearing the Blue and Gold of Beaver, Fred was the kingpin in a Beaver march to the championship of the Western Pennsylvania High school track meet. He scored a first place in the broad jump event and also was a member of the winning mile relay team.

Although his winning mark of 20 feet in the broad jump was low compared to present day records, it was really something then.

After graduating from the schoolboy scope, Fred entered Ohio State university and immediately took up where he left off back in little Beaver, Pa.

As a freshman he soon gained prominence along with the immortal George Simpson, Dick Rockaway, and Howard Kriss as about the best in the frosh field at Ohio State for many a moon.

Before the first year had closed he, along with Rockaway, was elected captain of the frosh team. His four year career at Ohio State had just begun. More laurels, climaxed by his world record feat as a senior, were yet to come.

Scrap Book Tells Story

No one person, or persons for that matter, can describe his brilliant career better than his voluminous scrap book. This book of prize clippings, photographs, and medals the book containing track meet results, feature stories and the like dating from early high school days.

Sports fans and newspapers at that time were giving more attention to track meets than at present. Just as the sport has faded from newsprint, so has it from public eye, he explained.

Fred's activities as an undergraduate student at Ohio State were not confined to athletics. He carried his regular school work while also participating in track, working as a clerk in the athletic publicity offices, and also participating in Greek fraternity affairs. Late in his junior year he won election to Sphinx, senior men's highest honorary. Election to this fraternity is made by the graduating seniors. Eligibility hinges on student activities, general scholastic average, as well as attitude toward school and leadership on the campus.

Has Collection of Awards

Other high athletic accomplishments include the winning of a half dozen wrist watches, track trophies, as well as many first, second, and third place ribbons.

One other collegiate mark which only a few track men can point to is a three-year dual meet record of only one loss. Also he reached the final rounds of both the Big Ten and national collegiate track meets. He was a winner for three straight years of the coveted varsity "O" monogram.

After graduating in the spring of 1931 Fred returned to the High street campus to complete requirements for a B.S. degree. While in law school he was appointed fraternity auditor in charge of finances for 70 fraternities on the Buckeye campus. Later he was elevated to the office of assistant dean of men. This promotion finally resulted in his dropping law school ambitions.

Starts Scout Work

In 1935 he resigned to accept a position in the scouting movement. After completing a 30-day training course at Mendham, N. J., he returned to Columbus as a district field executive. In April, 1938 he was promoted to his present status as Harding area executive.

Amidst his campus activities Fred married his college sweetheart whom he had met in a freshman psychology course. They are parents of one daughter, Sylvia, and make their home at 802 Bexley avenue.

JUNE JOB CLAIMS SHOW INCREASE

But Benefit Payments Drop, Report Reveals.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 16—Although new claims filed in June exceeded those of May, benefit payments to jobless Ohioans dropped 12 per cent last month, Administrator Herschel C. Atkinson of the bureau of unemployment compensation, reported today.

June payments totaled $1,216,113 against $1,385,887 in May. The corresponding number of new claims filed were 15,254 and 14,633.

The June average of $12.72 to each claimant for total unemployment was the second highest in BUC history. The average exceeded $14 in Dayton, Ravenna, Salem, Springfield and Troy.

For the first six months of 1942, Atkinson reported $10,475,103 paid to jobless, 36 per cent more than the $7,703746 paid in the first half of 1941. New claims increased 42 per cent from 98,593 to 140,421.

Atkinson attributed the increase in payments to liberalization of the unemployment compensation law last year, adding that the average weekly payment for total unemployment in 1941 was $10.26 but not less than $12.60 so far in 1942.

Women To Replace Men at Filling Stations.

Shortage of manpower due to the war resulted in the Gulf Oil Co. this week starting to use trained girl attendants at the Snyder service station on Delaware avenue.

Marion is the first Ohio city in which girl attendants have been employed by the company, but before long the company expects to have feminine help on duty in Bucyrus, Delaware, Mt. Gilead, Upper Sandusky, Mt. Vernon, Mansfield and Ashland, F. W. Meyer, sales representative from the Toledo division office said yesterday.

Two young Marion women, Miss Mabel Guthery and Miss Eloise White are on duty at the Snyder station under the direction of Bruce Snyder. They were selected from 15 who responded to an advertisement.

The girl attendants do all service station work except lubricating and tire changing. They were given a week's training by Joseph Yannitell, representative of John W. Matthews, distributor, and then were issued uniforms, two-piece tan slack suits, with the Gulf emblem, and bright blue overseas caps.

A farm security administration survey in rural areas of 17 states discloses that only four persons in every 100 are in top-notch physical condition. Bad teeth were the most common defects uncovered.

FREE IN CARRIAGES

PAINESVILLE, O., July 16—Drivers of horses and carriages will be admitted free to Lake county fair Aug. 25 through 28, Fair Board Director Fred M. Leyde announced today. He said it was a rubber conservation measure.

AUTO USE NECESSARY

CINCINNATI, July 16—Operation of two-thirds of the nation's 30,000,000 passenger cars is necessary for effective prosecution of the war effort, asserts Harry Sommers of Atlanta, Ga., president of the National Automobile Dealers' association in convention here. Sommers declared there is no immediate danger that the government will requisition private automobiles.

PORTSMOUTH STILL UNDECIDED ON ISSUE

Committee Considers Advisability of Buying Utility.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., July 16—A citizens' committee endeavored to determine today whether the city should buy the Portsmouth Gas Co. for $625,000.

The committee was appointed by city council to make recommendations concerning the proposal on which public opinion here is divided sharply.

The pros and cons of issuing $750,000 in mortgage revenue bonds to purchase the plant and pay initial operating costs have been argued by city officials and citizens, both sides expressing widely divergent views.

Proponents say:

The city could operate the utility more chesply, eliminating taxes and getting a reduced rate which would save domestic consumers up to five cents a thousand cubic feet, and that revenue from the utility would help the city retire its heavy bonded indebtedness.

Opponents assert:

The company has been for sale more than a year and if the $625,000 price were in line with profitable operation some other utility would have bought it, and that unexpected repair and replacement costs might prevent a rate reduction or force the city to operate the plant at a loss; a war ban on the manufacture of heating equipment may reduce consumption and revenue.

Guard To Start Drill Next Week in Hocking Hills

By The Associated Press

HOCKING CAMP, O., July 16—Deep in the Hocking hills Ohio's guardians of the home front will drill next week in preparation for war emergencies, even airborne invasion.

Abandoned CCC camps will be the barracks of the state guard during annual summer exercises instead of Camp Perry's broad parade grounds where they drilled last year. The guards will maneuver on the roughest of terrain in Zaleski state park and, as Adjt. Gen. Donald F. Pancoast said, learn to make the ground their friend.

"It will be no vacation," the general said dryly. "These troops are going to be trained to meet any possible airborne invasion—which definitely is no pipe-dream."

The men will drill in two shifts of one week each, about 550 men at each camp. The first few days will be devoted to fundamentals in combat methods—how to follow a squad leader or to lead a squad under fire; how to fight as a guerilla, how to be the equal of a better-armed man in a hand-to-hand struggle.

After the basic lessons, the men will go out Friday night in a full-scale maneuver. There will be simulated air attack, and heavy fire from an "enemy." Umpires will decide just how much the troops have learned.

"This won't be any parade ground," the adjutant general said. "They can do their drilling back home in the armories. When they come down here they're going to learn something else."

Southern Ohio was chosen for the training after the army took over Camp Perry, on Lake Erie, for war purposes.

No More Time To Stall

NATIONAL selective service headquarter's direct orders to local draft boards to call up single war workers before husbands and fathers is a warning to all employers who have been stalling instead of getting ready to deal realistically with the growing shortage of trained manpower.

It serves notice on these employers that the evil day when most of their military eligibles will be in the armed forces, with their places being filled by non-eligibles can't be postponed any longer. Draft boards are going to take single men without dependents and without necessary skills first. They are going to take single men with dependents but who are not contributing to the war effort second. They are going to take single men with dependents and who are contributing to the war effort before they take married men without children and who are not contributing to the war effort. The single man is marked for military service. Unless he has a physical defect that bars him absolutely, he is going to be in the armed forces. Not until the supply of single men is exhausted will the married men be drawn in great numbers.

This is what Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war manpower commission, has been talking about—the coming labor shortage. Older men and women must be trained in great numbers to fill the places still occupied by single men. They are going to be in the armed services. Production will become the responsibility of older men and women. The fact can't be escaped by ignoring it. There is no more time for stalling.

Mr. Nelson Isn't Running

THE way the government has mishandled the rubber problems must have Hitler licking his chops with anticipation. So far things in that quarter have been pretty much the way he predicted they'd be when the United States tried to recover from the impact of total, global war—a sad mess.

The politicians have been running the show, with results that could have been predicted any time after the afternoon of last Dec. 7. They have been trimming and backing and filling and soft-soaping and weasel wording—and they have had lots of help from all the people who want to think their joy riding can go on forever.

Fortunately, there's still time to shake off the tomfoolery and get down to brass tacks if—and only if—the rubber problem is taken out of politics and properly catalogued as one of the great, grim facts thrust upon the United States by Axis strategy. There are hard-headed, sober, honest men in Washington trying to do this, but so far they haven't been able to make themselves heard above the yapping of the candidates and lobbyists.

Donald M. Nelson, for instance, isn't running for anything. The only ax he has been accused of grinding is victory for the United States. And it's Mr. Nelson, testifying before a senate subcommittee, who says the synthetic rubber program won't be adequate for military and civilian needs before 1944. That's a long time as a set of worn tires go. It may sober down some of the starry-eyed wishful thinkers who have been absolutely positive the Blue Fairy was going to do something about rubber in time for next Christmas—soon enough so they wouldn't need to bother about it anyway.

Conservation vs. Salvage

THERE is a minor conflict between the official policies of conservation and salvage. When Donald Nelson, chief of the war production board, tells his countrymen to make the old things last he is close to the demands of the salvagers, who want the old things to be turned in for reclamation.

Eventually, the situation will have to be handled more realistically than it is being handled at present. The government salvage drives will have to specify whether they are interested only in junk, or whether they also expect to receive some articles still in use. The point was not cleared up in the course of the rubber salvage campaign.

Despite the fact that President Roosevelt when describing the purpose of the campaign said it was to collect "old rubber" and "scrap rubber," it appeared before the drive was over that some officials expected contributions of rubber articles still in daily use, such as the White House doormat, for instance. The same confusion was manifest in the aluminum drive many months ago. It will be troublesome in all other campaigns to collect durable materials.

The American people will do what they are expected to do. But first they must know what is expected. Their judgment will restrain them from regarding as salvage anything still in use, unless they are officially instructed that conservation is secondary to salvage.

News Behind the News

Russian Setbacks Not Regarded As Critical As News Might Indicate.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 16 — The Russian method of meeting the blitz has always been to give ground until the attack is spent. Then the Reds customarily move in against the panting and exhausted foe with counter-attacks.

For this, and many other reasons, authorities have discounted the direct possibilities of recent news from Russia.

For instance, those two salients which the Nazis first drove to the Don were narrow mechanized pushes. They were long slender fingers driven into the Russian position, not a complete wholesale advance on the 200-mile front.

It is true they cut the two railroads from Rostov to Moscow at Voronezh and Rossosh and thus succeeded in hindering communications between Timoshenko's southern army and the central army.

But these railroads have been used only for troops. Supplies have always come from the north by a safer route, around through Stalingrad.

Furthermore, even if Stalingrad falls and the Volga is cut there the Russians would still have one rail line left to the Caucasus oil from Astrakhan straight north.

Supplies Not Stopped

So while the two handiest troop rail-routes were cut at the outset of the drive, supplies were able to move to Timoshenko as usual, and his cause was not irreparably damaged.

Furthermore, the thin line of the German advance left Hitler the problem of protecting his flanks as he moved forward, and limited his operations.

At the two heads of the thin salients, Voronezh and Rossosh, his troops turned southward fighting their way down the railroads and the Don river.

The Russian defenses along the Don were seriously hampered by the winding nature of the river, and their inability to get back and forth across it. There are few bridges in that region, and the German attack swept down both banks of the river. In one big bend a very large Russian force was entrapped.

It was clear, also, that if his attack onward from Voronezh could reach the little railroad town of Povorino, it would present a much more serious threat to Timonshenko, for there his supply route running around through Stalingrad could be cut.

Furthermore, if the Nazi thrust down the Don reached Stalingrad before it spent itself, the vital Volga oil and supply route would be gone and nothing would be left except the Astrakhan route. Even so, all would not necessarily be lost.

While the southern army would then be completely cut off, Russian fighting ability in such circumstances is widely respected.

A counter attack by the southern and central armies straight across Hitler's salient to join them again and leave his advance forces surrounded, would still be a possibility.

Hitler's Position

To win in Russia, Hitler must crush the Russian armies completely and cause them to sue for an armistice. As was proved to the surprise of the world, last year, advances in thin salients and captures of strategic towns do not necessarily bring decisive results. The fighting is not over, even when the objectives are reached.

No one knows or will even attempt to guess when the power of the German attack will diminish, whether at Lisichansk or Kantemirovka (two points at which it was headed down the railroads at this writing), or whether it will be able to go on to Stalingrad.

It must stop some day and when that day comes, better news from that front may start.

Little satisfaction can be derived from going on beyond these immediate Nazi objectives to consider what will happen if they all go and Hitler starts the last lap of his drive for the real economic prize of this campaign, which is the Caucasus oil.

A supplemental attack from Taganrog on Rostov has been momentarily expected. This is the shortest route to that goal.

He will not hit oil until he gets to Krasnodar (it yields about 500,000 tons of oil a year) and Grozny. To reach these points he will have to cross wide prairies cut by sharp depressions and gullies, admirably suited for Russian defense.

The Russians well knew of Hitler's objectives last year, in time to accumulate huge oil stores to support their armies for an indefinite period in the north.

Thus, while the latest developments are grave, they have been subjected to over-exaggerated interpretations.

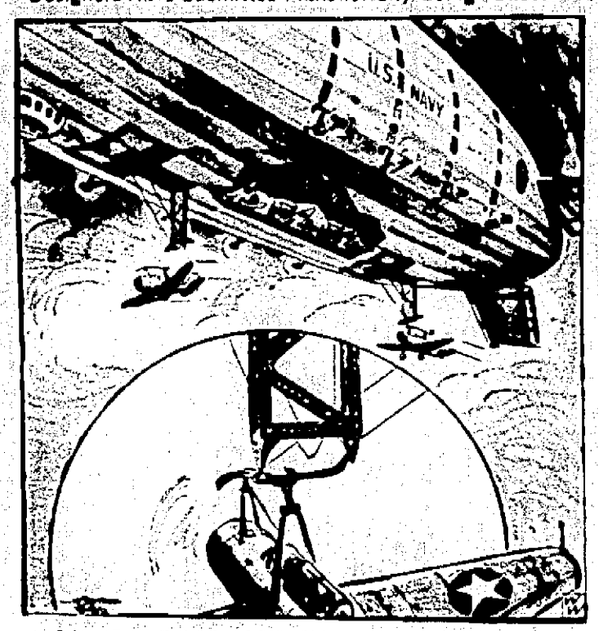
Aerial Plane Carriers?

Designers Have Submitted Plans for Sky-Going "Bases."



LOWER THE SKY HOOK—Sketch shows how planes may be taken aboard a dirigible while in flight.

By HAROLD C. McKINLEY
Wide World Features

AKRON, O., July 16—Airplane bases in the clouds and flying gasoline stations may be developed to give the navy greater striking power in its war on the wing.

Lighter-than-aircraft experts envision huge dirigibles, capable of carrying broods of bombing planes, that could be used as sky ports and refueling stations to supplement sea carriers.

Designers here have submitted to the navy plans for a rigid airship of 10,000,000 cubic feet capacity—nearly half again as large as the Akron and Macon, and about 3,000,000 cubic feet larger than the Hindenburg, German goliath of all dirigibles. All of these ships met disaster.

Work With Navy

A "mother" ship of this size would carry 10 attack bombers and would operate in conjunction with other naval units at sea. It's function would be to put its load of planes within range of the objective as speedily as possible.

In its speed and maneuverability, the airship has certain advantages over surface carriers, its proponents argue.

Captain C. E. Rosendahl, navy dirigible expert, two years ago said the airship could travel much farther than any airplane, much faster than any surface vessel."

"A surface cruiser is generally capable of about three days' sustained speed at 30 knots," he commented at that time. "Carrying 10 superior attack bombers, the 10,000,000 cubic feet airship at a cruising speed of 50 knots, or 60 land miles per hour, could cruise non-stop for 10,000 miles."

Get There, Get Away

This speed would enable the airship to deliver its planes near the objective in about half the time required by a surface carrier and permit it to get away with greater ease.

The airship fears neither mines nor torpedoes and has no business to get within gun range. It can be attacked by planes, but is protected by its own planes and its gun installations.

The airship's vulnerable area is only about one-fifth its total, according to Captain Rosendahl. The use of non-inflammable helium gas reduces the hazard of fire from incendiary bullets. The loss of a gas cell reduces the ship's buoyancy but does not down it, and bullet holes may be repaired during flight.

The principle of launching and recovering planes from a sky base first was tested nearly a decade ago with the ships Akron and Macon. Each Caarried floating hangers inside the hull with space for five fighting planes. A trapeze arrangement released and picked up the planes through a T-shaped opening in the airship's bottom.

Gas Station, Too

These operations were performed more than 3,000 times—by day and by night in smooth weather and rough — by naval personnel. Carrying large supplies of gasoline and oil, the mother ship also served as a refueling point.

Construction of giant dirigibles was halted in this country after the 1933 destruction of the Akron in an Atlantic coast storm and the crash of the Macon in the Pacific two years later. In recent years the navy's use of lighter-than-air craft has been limited chiefly to blimps for coastal patrol.

Recognition of DeGaulle as Leader of "Fighting French" No Mere Gesture.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE RECOGNITION of Gen. DeGaulle as the leader of the fighting French is no mere diplomatic gesture which has little practical military significance in relation to the great battles in Russia and in the Mediterranean. It is, on the contrary, a necessary and critical move in the development of the western front in Europe.

For in discussing the western front we must remember that in the first great phase of the operation on land we shall be entering territory where the great mass of the people must rise up to help us as fast as we establish strong points around which they can rally and as soon as we can place weapons in their hands.

Though Hitler has defeated the armies of France, he has not only failed to conquer the French nation but in fact has made the French more desperately and implacably his enemies than they ever were in 1939 and 1940. For if Hitler had won France and the other occupied countries to his empire. If they had accepted it and were willing to defend it against us, a western front would mean a war against Europe and not against Nazi Germany alone.

In fact, the western front is a campaign in which by smashing the occupying forces somewhere, the British-American forces become the spearhead of a war with and by Europe against Nazi Germany. The ferocity with which Hitler is oppressing the occupied peoples is indisputable proof he knows they are his enemies and our allies. It is proof in fact a confession by Hitler himself, that though the occupied nations are now unarmed, they are in fact an enormous reservoir of trained and furious men who will pour forth to join us wherever and whenever we punch a hole in the dam that holds them back.

Relations With France

Our present relations with France are determined by two great developments which have now matured. The one is that we are now committed, as of course we were not at the time of the French armistice to total war against Hitler, and that our power to wage war against Hitler is becoming formidable.

To the French people, who can have no use for mere good wishes of a distant non-combatant, the sense of resisting Hitler lies in the steady advance of our mounting power in the direction of Europe. They have seen that we have accepted the heavy losses of the submarine war against secondary shipping in our own waters in order to concentrate our naval forces to insure movement of primary shipping across the Atlantic to our advanced bases.

The other critical development is marked by the change of name from Free French to Fighting French. This is of highest significance. The defeat of France in 1940 was in part due, and the capitulation of France at Bordeaux was predominantly due, to the fact that Frenchmen were so divided against themselves that they could not unite against Hitler.

Factionalism, which was the disease of the French in the last

Away Back

Some Recollections of Stage Shows That Make Ours Almost Too Recent To Be Interesting.

By DAMON RUNYON

J. M. HEWITT of Sherman Oaks, out here in the San Fernando valley where retired Thespians are likely to leap out from behind any bush, stops me dead cold with his recollections on the old time vaudeville. He really goes away back yonder. I never heard of some of the names he pulls on me, and I have staggered the best of the local I-remember boys with them.

I judge Mr. Hewitt spent his vaudeville youth around Mike Shea's once celebrated music hall in Buffalo. He covers some of the period when the '80's were merging into the '90's. His memory lingers long and rather fondly on Kate Harvey, an English concert hall singer who arrived at Shea's after a short warming engagement in New York to which she returned later.

Kate headlined Shea's program, according to Mr. Hewitt. He remembers that while not beautiful she was good to look at—tall, rather stout, with auburn hair and laughing brown eyes and plenty of personality. Her voice was good, well trained, and she had a slight Kate Smith quality in her routine and phrasing. She remained at Shea's for a long engagement.

Mr. Hewitt says that personally he always fancied unison singing and that he will never forget the thrill he got out of hearing 500 voices singing the Prayer Song from Lohengrin conducted by Leopold Damrosch, father of the great Walter. Thus, his admiration for Kate Harvey increased when she developed a male chorus in unison in a song called "Sligo" at Shea's.

MR. HEWITT thinks the first fan dancer was Dorothy Denning in the late '80's in W. H. Carleton's variety road show of which "Little Corrine" was the star. It was called "The Crinoline Fan Dance." Dorothy wore a long, pleated and voluminous crinoline skirt with open sides which she managed cleverly and Mr. Hewitt observes, revealingly. Her dance was patterned after a Lottie Collins tara-ra-boom-de-ay, but Mr. Hewitt thinks her brief success was based more on newspaper publicity than terpsichorean talent.

He mentions a Philadelphia family, father, mother, two sisters and two brothers, known as the McAvoys as forerunners of the Seven Foys or the Four Cohans as a family act. They sang, danced and gave out with instrumental music and played as far west as St. Louis. Patsy Doyle, "the champion pedestal clog dancer of the world," was appearing about this time. Patsy doing a dance on a small marble square set on top of a pedestal.

James Owen O'Connor, the great Shakespearean actor and tragedian, fresh from his European triumphs, was around packing the houses with his renditions of Othello and Macbeth behind a screen, made necessary by the popular pastime among audiences of pegging aged eggs and decrepit fruit at him as they did long afterwards at the Cherry Sisters. Mr. Hewitt thinks O'Connor may have taken himself seriously at first, though others thought he was kidding from the start.

IT IS THE opinion of my correspondent that James Harrigan, who billed himself as "Harrigan the Great" and as "The Tramp Juggler," was one of the greatest of all the old time vaudevillians. He came from Pennsylvania and lasted from around 1885 almost to the first World war. He introduced juggling with blocks, afterward cleverly practiced by W. C. Fields.

But Mr. Hewitt says juggling was the least of Harrigan's accomplishments. He had a remarkable act that included witty patter and a takeoff on all the other performers on the bill. He had a juggling trick with a lighted lamp which no other juggler was ever able to duplicate. Harrigan bought out a rock and sand business in Buffalo after he retired and is said to have been quite wealthy when he died.

Langmaid Paints British Sea Battle

By The Associated Press

CAIRO—Art lovers in future years will have a chance to see how the British navy won its victories in the Mediterranean. Lieut. Commander Rowland Langmaid, first official artist assigned to any British fleet in this war, has been given the task of putting outstanding battles on canvas.

Langmaid, giving up a job as naval censor in Alexandria, says he intends to put down in black and white for photo reproduction and possible exhibition in galleries every major naval engagement. He has completed some paintings of night action in the battle of Cape Matapan and now is depicting the recent rout of a heavy Italian squadron during Malta convoy operations by cruisers commanded by Real Admiral Philip Vian.

Langmaid is 44. He studied at the Royal Academy in London and the Royal College of Art in South Kensington. His work has been exhibited at the Royal Academy and also in Philadelphia galleries.

JOB INSURANCE PAYMENTS INCREASE

$50,737 Paid in Four-County Area Since First of Year.

Unemployed workers in the Marion area received $50,737.42 of the $10,475,103 paid in benefits by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation during the first six months of 1942, according to F. W. Biehl, Ohio BUC representative with headquarters in Columbus.

Mr. Biehl, who represents the counties of Marion, Hardin, Wyandot and Crawford counties, said the six-months benefit total was an increase of $1,701.42 compared with the same period in 1941 when the jobless received $48,-936.00.

New claims filed from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year numbered 525 in this area compared with 573 filed in the first six months of 1941. The total for the state was 140,421 in the first half of 1942, a gain of 42 per cent over the 98,593 received in the comparable 1941 months.

In forwarding the statistical data for the first six months of 1942 and for June, Herschel C. Atkinson, administrator of the bureau, called Mr. Biehl's attention to the fact that the increased statewide benefits were largely due to the liberalizing provisions added to the unemployment compensation act last fall.

Benefit payments in this area in June totaled $5,444.62, a drop of 3.8 per cent compared with May. For the state the June benefits amounted to $1,216,113, a decrease of 12 per cent under May when the total was $1,355,887.

New claims filed in this area during June numbered 36, or 53.1 per cent less than in May. New claims filed in the state last month totaled 15,254, a gain of nearly 3 per cent over the previous month's total of 14,833.

The average weekly number of persons receiving benefits in this area in June was 113 as compared with 120 in May. In the state the average number of persons receiving benefits dropped to 21,359 in June from 27,090 in May.

44-CENT PAY BOOST DUE IN STEEL MILLS

Expect Announcement of Increase To Come Today.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 16—The war labor board was expected to announce today a wage increase of 44 cents a day in "Little Steel," the most significant wage decision it has been called on to make so far.

The CIO United Steelworkers, headed by Philip Murray, had made a five-month fight for an increase of $1 a day over the present basic common labor wage of $5.80 for 157,000 workers of Bethlehem, Republic, and Inland Steel, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. Employer and public members approved the 44 cents, out-voting the four labor members who stood fast for a larger sum, authoritative sources who refused quotation by name said last night.

In Pittsburgh Murray met with a committee of 125 union representatives from the four mills to decide whether to accept the board's ruling. He said there was a precedent in refusing to abide by a WLB decision—the case of a midwestern rail operator who subsequently worked out an understanding with his employes.

The labor board decision was said to give the union a maintenance of membership clause, the company checkoff of union dues, and the minimum daily wage guarantee.

The decision was generally considered far-reaching, since the higher rates might be applied throughout steel generally, affecting about 600,000 workers. About 400,000 automobile plant workers, also seeking $1 a day increase, have their cases before the board. The basic formula used by the board in "Little Steel" was awaited as an indicator of what can be expected in other decisions in durable goods industries.

The four "Little Steel" cases were certified to the board early in February and the wage raises will be retroactive to those dates.

Joe is still smiling...

This Friday is American Heroes' Day and the Nation is making a special War Bonds and Stamps effort in salute to the Mehles, the Bulkeleys, the Kellys of our brave young fighting forces... And we are, too... but we can't help thinking of Joe.

You remember Joe. He used to carry your packages from your Kroger store out to your car. Quiet kind of a kid... took it all out in a friendly grin and maybe a chance remark or two: "How are you today, Mrs. Allen?", or "Is the little boy's cold better?" And you liked Joe. So did we.

Joe worked vacations for us at first. And then he started full time. You can't stop willingness like Joe had. And that grin. And he was proud of his advancement; proud one day, too, of that little sign: "Manager, Joe ———"

And then Uncle Sam needed him. Joe didn't ask any favors. He didn't make any speeches about liberty. He just grinned... and said: "OK!" He just offered his life.

We've got a lot of Joes...and Charlies ...and Harrys gone from Kroger's. And there's a lot of them missing where you work, and from the street where you live.

But it's good to know they're smiling wherever they may be... smiling because there are so many of us here at home determined to work harder, save harder, to keep them supplied with the guns and tanks and ships that will let them come home to us.

So, on American Heroes' Day, we want to salute the sung heroes... and we want to salute Joe and all the unsung boys like him... And on this day, we'd like to remind you to buy even more War Stamps and Bonds to keep the fightin'est army in the world fighting... and smiling!

Bevis and Anson Ceremony Read in Marion Church

PALMS and baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar of Central Christian church for the marriage of Miss Maizie Belle Bevis of 547 South Prospect street and Charles L. Anson of Russells Point, Wednesday morning. Lighted white tapers held in two, walnut, seven-branch candelabra completed the decorative note. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bevis.

For the ceremony read at 9:30 o'clock by Rev. M. L. Buckley, retired minister and former pastor of the church, the bride wore a white marquisette dress over white satin and a white flower turban. The dress was made with a sweetheart neckline and puffed sleeves. Streamers of white velvet ribbon caught with orange blossoms trimmed the front of the shirred bodice and the floor-length skirt was tiered. She wore white lace mitts and carried a lace handkerchief which had been carried by her mother at her wedding. Her bridal bouquet held white roses and gypsophila tied with tulle.

Miss Ellen Carter, who was her maid of honor and only attendant, wore a pink taffeta dress with a matching hat and carried a fan-shaped bouquet of pink carnations, white stocks and gypsophila, caught with blue ribbons. Janice Bevis, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. She wore a floor-length dress of white dotted swiss and carried a white basket tied with blue ribbons and filled with pink flowers.

Glen Bevis, brother of the bride, served as best man and the guests were seated by William Herr of Prospect and Clyde Caldwell.

To light the candles Miss Ruth Rors of Waldo wore a dress of aqua blue chiffon with a headdress of pink carnations.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Harry L. Bell. As the guests were being seated she played "Neapolitan Nights," Zamecnik, "Serenade," Schubert, "Venetian Love Song," Nevin, "The Old Refrain," Kreisler, "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell and "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," Saint-Saens. During the ceremony she played "Liebestraum," Liszt and for the processional and recessional the traditional wedding marches.

Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast at Ringer's Inn. The table was decorated with a tiered wedding cake decorated with miniature china figures, heirlooms in the bride's family. White roses and greenery completed the decorations.

When the couple left on a wedding trip in northern Michigan the bride wore a brown dress with white accessories. They will be at home after Aug. 15 at Russells Point.

Upper Sandusky Woman Gives Talk on China

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 16—The Women's Missionary society of First Presbyterian church met Tuesday with Mrs. R. C. Bowman. The guest speaker was Mrs. Theodore F. Romig, formerly Miss Harriet Stalter of Upper Sandusky, who served with her husband on the foreign missionary field of China, in the province of Hunan, until their recent recall in the face of Japanese thrusts in the territory.

Mrs. Romig spoke of the Chinese people, their ways and customs, and mentioned the cultural background of the centuries.

Strong Communistic, militaristic and nationalistic elements are struggling for supremacy in China as the Chinese abandon pagan ideas, Mrs. Romig said, and Christians are now responsible for what happens in China in the future. Christian missions are needed there, and everywhere, for the spread of Christianity is the only way to avoid war in the future.

The preparation of this front is, therefore, a close and complete combination of strategy and tactics and logistics, but also and always, because this is the other blade of the scissors, of political action. It is evident that whatever else they may be neglecting on the home front or on secondary fronts, Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill are in fact remembering where the main decisions in this war will be taken, and that the two blades of the scissors are being made longer and much sharper.

The French question is how far it is wise to tolerate collaboration with Hitler just when it will be expedient to force all Frenchmen to take their stand definitely for us or against us. It is clear that at some point, certainly no later than the opening of the western front, we shall force the issue. It is clear, too, that we have now reached the point in our preparations where there is nothing to be lost and much to be gained by putting all Frenchmen on notice that the day is approaching when we shall force the issue.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

MRS. MURDOCK TAKES A CASE

by George Harmon Coxe

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

O'Conner

"What about the bonds?" Thorndike was not yet molasses and his manner continued [illegible] aggressive.

"They haven't turned up?"

[illegible] the dope on them, numbers, names, numbers [illegible] that."

"[illegible] registered," Thorndike [illegible] "They're all coupon [illegible] insisted on that. [illegible] sell them. I haven't [illegible] me but you can get [illegible] any office any time."

Bacon said, "Then [illegible] that we're looking [illegible] He had pressed a button on [illegible] as he spoke and presently [illegible] man looked in. "Get Mr. Allen," Bacon said.

Della Stewart was on her feet when the door opened again, and [illegible] along the length of the table [illegible] Ward Allen, who stopped [illegible] the sight of her, eyes widening with surprise—and something else that might have been alarm.

"Oh, Ward!" There was a catch in her voice and she stumbled on. "You're all right, aren't you, darling?"

She put her arms about his waist but even then he did not touch her, standing quite stiff with hands at his side, a straight tall figure, in chalk-striped gray. Only the pallor of his face suggested that anything was wrong and the tightness in his voice.

"What are you doing here, Della?"

She lifted her head. "I had to come. I would have come anyway. And you mustn't worry, darling. Please. Everything will be all right—"

"I know, I know."

Joyce caught the strange remoteness of his voice, so did Della. She drew back, looking up and searching his face. Only once and he looked at her and now his gaze was directed over her head and he seemed intent on getting her back to her seat as he touched her arm and turned her towards it.

Della went along in front of him, her eyes hurt and bewildered. She sat down and looked at the table.

Vaguely, Joyce heard Bacon introduce O'Conner, but it was not until the investigation began that she could really listen or take her eyes off the grim lines of Ward Allen's face.

"There's no stenographer this time," Bacon was saying. "All I want you to do is give Mr. O'Conner the real story of what happened the other night."

Tight Spot

"You're in a pretty tight spot, Mr. Allen," O'Conner said. "If you can explain—"

"I've already told the lieutenant my story," Ward Allen said. "Yesterday morning."

"I read that part," O'Conner said, "but there's more now."

"Is there?"

"A lot more. Where did you get the gun you threw away at about eleven thirty the night before last?"

Joyce stared in dismay, hearing Della's muffled gasp.

Without moving, Ward Allen seemed to flinch. His cheeks grew ashen, and although the protective mask he had fashioned to hide his feelings was still pretty good something had happened to him. Inside he was scared and shaken; it showed in his eyes.

"Well, Mr. Allen?" O'Conner said.

"I'm afraid I don't follow you." Allen's voice was cold again. "What gun is that?"

"Was there more than one?"

O'Conner was leaning forward a little, smiling. Joyce hated him right then because something told her that in this battle of words the District Attorney's man held all the cards. Allen looked across the table, saying nothing.

"I mean the one you threw into the trash can on the corner of Commonwealth and Regent," O'Conner said. He was still smiling, still waiting. When he again received no answer the smile went away and his voice gradually became curt, incisive. "A taxi driver found it," he said, after he had seen someone throw it there. He was sitting in his cab—there's a two cab stand back on the next corner—and he saw a coupe slow down ahead of him, pulling in to the curb. A man leaned out and tossed something in the can and because he wasn't busy and was curious he walked down the street and took a look. It was a .32 automatic."

O'Conner pulled out a pack of cigarets, waiting until he had a light before he went on.

"Unfortunately for us he decided it was a pretty nice find and he'd keep it. Being on an all-night shift he didn't get up until late afternoon. He saw the piece in the paper about Clarke, but he was a little scared then and didn't get his nerve up until evening. After he'd turned it in, it took some time to check and have the ballistics man go over it. Otherwise we would have had you down last night, Mr. Allen. Because that gun killed Perry Clarke."

Denial

This time nothing changed in Ward Allen's face, and his voice was composed.

"I suppose all you'll have to do now is compare my fingerprints with those on the gun—or maybe the taxi man can identify the arm that threw it."

O'Conner's glance narrowed irritably.

"There wouldn't be any prints, except the taxi driver's. And we don't expect him to identify you since he only had a glimpse of your profile and that a distance—we're not kidding ourselves about that. But he did take down the number of the coupe and it checks with yours. Your car was out on the streets at that time and was not delivered to your garage until between eleven thirty and a quarter of twelve."

Lieutenant Bacon had been listening to all this with ill-disguised impatience. Now he blew his nose loudly and cleared his throat.

"Why don't you come clean and stop giving us the run-around?" he said.

Allen looked at him and smiled. "You already have my story," he said.

"I suppose you didn't throw that gun away?"

"No."

"Why don't you tell us somebody stole your car?"

"You've already thought of that. So I'll say the taxi driver must have been mistaken about the license number."

O'Conner shrugged and stood up, his glance narrow and resentful.

"I'll explain it to the chief," he said. "Meanwhile you'd better hold him downstairs."

He put on his hat and went out. Bacon went to the window and looked out, his legs wide-spread and back stiff. After that there was silence for a few seconds, until Dean Thorndike shifted in his chair.

"Take it easy, Ward. We'll get a lawyer for you and—"

"That isn't necessary," Ward said. "They really haven't any case, you know."

"But there'll be publicity if you—"

"You know there'll be publicity," Bacon spun about. "We're looking over your place now, Allen—with a warrant. Just make yourself comfortable downstairs and we'll see how long you stick to your story."

He strode back to the desk and pushed a button. Presently the plain-clothes man appeared. Bacon nodded to him and he walked up to Ward Allen, touching him on the arm.

SEC. ICKES TO VISIT LORAIN TUBE MILLS

Ickes will be accompanied by W. Alton Jones, president of Cities Service and head of War Emergency Pipelines, Inc., and Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum coordinator.

Ickes is scheduled to speak over an NBC radio network from Lorain, 9:45 to 10 a. m., on petroleum supply problems in wartime.

The plant is turning out 550 miles of 24-inch tubing for what will be the worlds largest oil carrying conduit.

NO REASON FOR FEAR

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 16—Ohioans "should not become unduly alarmed" about the number of doctors being called for military service, asserts Dr. Robert Conrad of Wilmington, chairman of the Ohio Committee for procurement and Assignment of Physicians. He reported today that 1,137 Ohio doctors are serving with the armed forces and 250 are awaiting acceptance. Even if 2,500 enter military service, at least 6,000 will remain in the state to provide medical care for civilians, he estimated.

Argentine railways, in experiments with the use of shelled corn for locomotive fuel have found that a mixture of 70 per cent Welsh coal and 30 per cent corn is the most satisfactory but that the economy does not justify the cost of the extra labor involved.

Chinese Retake City in Chekiang Province

By The Associated Press

CHUNGKING, July 16—The Chinese high command announced today re-occupation of Tsinguien in Chekiang province on Sunday, with 600 Japanese killed or wounded and the remainder fleeing toward Wenchow, 25 miles to the southeast.

(The Japanese took the port of Wenchow Saturday. The Chinese apparently employed their familiar tactics of closing in from behind and nipping off the garrison left behind by the Japanese at Tsinguien.)

A Chinese communique also said a Chinese force "penetrated into the Japanese barracks at Sinyang," an invasion base in southern Honan province, and killed or wounded many Japanese soldiers and slaughtered 100 horses.

America's most successful communistic experiment took place at Economy, north of Pittsburgh on the Ohio river. It was founded by the Harmony Society in 1824.

ASHLEY FAIR, FIRST IN STATE, OPENS

Racing Program Is Launched This Afternoon.

Special to The Star

ASHLEY, O., July 15—Ashley's fair, first in Ohio this year, opened yesterday. Today a three-day race program began.

Attendance yesterday was reported to be fair.

CHILD NEAR CAREY KILLED IN MISHAP

Fall from Tongue of Moving Wagon Fatal.

Special to The Star

CAREY, July 16—Helen Marie Risner, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Risner of northwest of Carey, was killed in a fall from a wagon tongue about 7:45 last night.

The accident happened in front of the Clifford Kauffman home a short distance from the Risner farm. Helen, the small Kauffman daughter, witnessed the fall. She told Deputy Sheriff E. W. Mullholland of Carey that the Risner girl had jumped on the wagon tongue of the second of two wagons loaded with wheat being towed by a tractor operated by Ralph Heck of Carey, and either jumped again or fell from the tongue, alighting on the pavement. She thought that the wagon passed over the girl's body.

A Carey physician said Helen Marie died of a skull fracture, having either bumped her head when she fell, or having become entangled in the wagon wheel struck her head on the pavement. One collarbone was broken. Mrs. Heck was unaware that the girl was on the wagon, the deputy said. The body was taken to the Bristoll funeral home in Carey.

Helen Marie is survived by her parents, Clifford and Polly Pucket Risner, two brothers, Eills Gene and Alvin Dean and two sisters, Marie Ann and Beatrice May, and her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Pucket of Stoutbridge, Mich. She was born July 7, 1936.

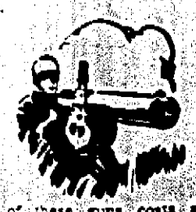
The goal for trained workers set by the Ohio defense council is 420,000. As of June 30, a total of 496,231 have volunteered for service.

The citizens defense corps, embracing air raid wardens, fire watchers, auxiliary policemen and firemen, messengers and nurses' aides has enrolled 53,001.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The .30-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.



One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $900. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

the ammunition. I just got another one."

Presents Speaker
Jerry Passen, chairman of the "Retailers for Victory" drive this month presented Mrs. Lawson and after her talk said: "This gives us a clearer picture of why we should go out Friday and sell bonds and more bonds."
In opening the meeting Mr. Passen said:
"We have dedicated Friday as American Heroes day, the day when we want to show them, the boys on the front, our appreciation for their efforts."
He said every family in Marion has a hero in the war "so that we back home can once again have freedom and liberty."
Mr. Passen reminded listeners that to get the necessary equipment for the men who are doing the fighting the people who stay at home must buy bonds and stamps to finance the war.
L. G. Jones, public school music supervisor led the audience in singing two selections and the national anthem, which he dedicated to American Heroes Day.
At the close of the meeting C. A. McCrew and his group of employees of the J. C. Penney Co. marched and sang a war bonds and stamps jingle set to the music of "Yankee Doodle," the tune, which every morning when the store opens, drew a round of applause. Store chairmen met after the program to arrange final plans of tomorrow's drive.

SALVAGE

drippings from steaks, chops, veal and bacon, deep fats, whether lard or vegetable, fried potatoes, fish, doughnuts, etc., all should go into the salvaging can. The can should be clean and wide-mouthed and the fats should be strained. Place in a refrigerator or a cool dark place until at least one pound has been collected. It should then be taken to the meat dealer.
Four things not to do are: Don't take less than one pound at a time to your dealer; don't take fats to the meat dealer in glass containers or paper bags; don't let fats stand so long that they become rancid. If they do the glycerine content is reduced; don't take fats to the dealer on week-ends. Help him by returning them early in the week.
Just how the metals will be salvaged and places to which contributions may be taken will be worked out immediately. One suggestion favored by the committee was that the method used in the collection of the rubber be followed and containers be placed at gas stations.
The heavy scrap metal is just about used up and we are going to have to gather every piece of metal we can find, E. M. Breithaupt, a member of the committee stated. While the situation is serious now it is going to be more serious in the next six months, he believes. That the situation is serious was the opinion of the committee members and all agreed that Marion's next salvaging program was extending the territory for every bit of scrap metal to be had.
"Just by way of starting the drive, why not ask the city to donate the cannon in the city parks?" was the suggestion of one of the committee members.
Ralph Duncan of LaRue, salvage chairman in LaRue and vicinity, told of the work of the committee in his part of the county, which he said had been pretty well covered. The farmers for the most part are interested and cooperate in the salvage program, he stated.
Members of the committee include the chairmen and Robert Byrd, Robert Mason, D. T. Mills, Fred P. Strouther, Miss Edith Treat, E. M. Breithaupt, Frank Keefe, Major Joseph Heard, Chief T. J. McFarland, Carl Sims, Newman Browarsky, H. A. Krighaum, J. P. Sharkey, Mrs. Frew and C. E. Fuente.

TAX BILL BEFORE HOUSE FOR DEBATE

War Measure Carries Heavy New Corporation Levies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 16—The largest tax bill in the nation's history—a $6,142,900,000 wartime measure carrying heavy new income and corporation levies—went before the house today for general debate.

As the representatives gathered an attempt was being made to get support for returning the bill to the ways and means committee for revision of proposed new corporation rates.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn), one of the two members who voted against the legislation in committee, announced he would move to recommit the bill with instructions to raise the excess profits rate from 87½ per cent to at least 90 per cent and to cut the normal and surtax rates from a combined 45 to 40 per cent.

Knutson asserted that he had "a good chance" of winning his motion because of the close division in the committee itself on those controversial points. But, with a bill before the House after 18 weeks of committee work, it was considered unlikely that the members would do other than accept it.

Lawn Fete To Be Held by Epworth Youths

forced the Germans to ferry their reinforcements by air.

Rommel's qualified success at The Hill of Jesus—Tel El Eisa—on Tuesday night may have reflected this new strength. Hardy Australian troops, however, continued to hold elevated positions in that coastal sector, but were under steady pressure.

Evidently to relieve them, other imperial forces pushed forward yesterday in the central sector of the bottleneck front between the coast and the Qattara depression some 30 miles inland.

Land and aerial bombardment continued and a number of axis tanks were knocked out, Cairo headquarters announced.

Allied airmen were smashing day and night at Rommel's airfields, front line positions, and supply bases far to the rear. Targets last night included Bengasi and Tobruk.

"Enemy bombing increased a little," the communique conceded.

The Germans declared that part of the dominating heights facing El Alamein, 70 miles west of Alexandria, had fallen to the axis and that an Australian battalion staff had been captured. The Italians told of British attacks on the central sector and of immediate counter-attacks. They also claimed a British cruiser had been damaged in the Mediterranean by German and Italian airmen.

NAVY REVEALS NEW ATLANTIC SINKINGS

All But Nine of 381 Escape Torpedoed Vessel.

All but nine of a total of 381 passengers and crewmen aboard a torpedoed American merchantman survived the sinking of the ship, two weeks ago despite the fact it foundered so rapidly they literally stepped over the side into the sea.

This sinking, involving the largest number of persons on any vessel known to have been sunk in the western Atlantic since the submarine campaign began there, was one of four attacks announced by the navy yesterday.

With the destruction of a large British merchantman, another medium-sized U. S. cargo ship and a Norwegian merchant vessel, the unofficial Associated Press tabulation of Allied and neutral wartime ship losses in the western Atlantic area rose to 374.

They Learn High Stepping

HIGH STEP — Director Arthur Lawrence puts three of his drum majorette candidates through their paces at the Minneapolis school for parade leaders.

Wide World Features

MINNEAPOLIS — Plenty of military antics with a dash of gridiron training and high stepping of the chorus routine—

That's the curriculum for some 70 lassies seeking their "degrees" at an open air drum majorette school in summer session here.

The girls 14 to 18 years old, train as hard as rookies on an army drill field as they go through difficult routines. Calisthenics similar to those used by the armed forces furnish the poise necessary in baton twirling while strutting in a lengthy parade.

Lined up similar to football squads, in rows of 10, the majorettes count aloud as they execute routines. Student teachers pace between rows like army drill sergeants, correcting mistakes, straightening ranks, reprimanding misses.

Arthur Lawrence, young Minneapolis high school band teacher, director of the project which was started this year to furnish expert majorette units for each band marching in the numerous festival parades, believes that the baton tossing course will be a permanent thing.

PASTOR AND WIFE TO LEAVE MARION

DR. AND MRS. HARRY L. BELL

tion, not only as a minister, but also as one of Marion's most active men in civic organizations.

A past president of the Marion County Ministerial association, Dr. Bell was one of the organizers of the Marion Community Forum, which he served as vice president for two years and as president for the last two years, and was one of the men most active in promoting the annual pre-Easter preaching mission program which has brought outstanding churchmen to Marion for the last several years. He recently completed his second year as chairman of the preaching mission organization.

On Red Cross Board

Dr. Bell is a member of the advisory board of the Marion Salvation Army and is one of the directors of the Marion Red Cross chapter board. Last year he served as chairman of the annual Red Cross roll call.

A member of the Kiwanis club, he was chairman of the citizenship committee which staged a countywide war bond and stamp survey.

He is chairman of young people's work in District 6 of the Ohio Christian Women's Missionary society, a member of the state religious education commission of the Christian church, and a member of the committee on recommendations of the international Christian church convention which will be held in Grand Rapids, Mich., the last of this month.

During the period of Dr. Bell's pastorate of Central church, a $2,800 mortgage has been reduced to $275 which he hopes to have cleared by the time he leaves. the church has gained approximately 220 members, and missionary offerings have increased nearly 100 per cent. Dr. Bell also inaugurated the unified service of morning worship.

Native of Australia

A native of Australia, Dr. Bell has been in demand in recent months as a speaker on the land "down under" before church, civic and patriotic groups in Marion and surrounding cities.

Dr. Bell's resignation also will take from the Marion scene the president of the newly-organized Marion Council of United Church Women, the city's newest organization of Protestant church women.

Mrs. Bell was elected to head the council last month.

A talented vocalist and organist, Mrs. Bell has been organist and choir director at Central church throughout her husband's pastorate.

She is a member of the Marion Lecture-Recital club and the Current Topic club of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs. She is on the club's executive committee and is a member of the piano ensemble of club women.

In denominational work she is a member of the board of the Ohio Christian Women's Missionary society, program chairman of the Woman's Missionary society of Central church and president of the business and professional women's group of the society.

Dr. Bell and his family came to Marion in January of 1937 from Harlan, Ky., where he served the Christian church for two years. On Dec. 6, 1936, the Central congregation unanimously voted him to succeed Rev. James O. Dodd who had resigned to accept a pastorate in Terre Haute, Ind.

With the exception of the two years in Harlan, the five and a half years in Marion and a year on a preaching mission to the Hawaiian Islands, New Zealand and Australia, Dr. Bell's entire ministry of 27 years has been spent on the west coast.

Ordained Son

In May of 1940 he celebrated his twenty-fifth year in the ministry on a service at which he ordained his son, Wayne, to the ministry.

He received his doctor's degree in 1916 from the Eugene Bible college in Eugene, Ore. He prepared for the ministry at the Eugene Bible college, the University of Oregon and at Technical college at Wanganui, New Zealand.

Prior to coming east to become pastor at Harlan he served churches at Olympia, Wenatchee and Ellensburg, all in Washington state. He was a member of the Washington state board of the Christian church for 14 years and was president four consecutive years, resigning when he went to Kentucky.

Mrs. Bell, who is a second cousin of Mrs. Mattie B. Dugan of 142 South Vine street, majored in music at the University of Oregon. She was active in state Christian women's work in Washington.

They have a daughter, Mrs. Harry W. Smith of Harlan, Ky., and four sons, Rev. Wayne Bell, who is starting his senior year in the summer term of the College of the Bible in Lexington, Ky., Winston Bell, who is starting his senior year in the summer term at Transylvania college at Lexington, Raymond Bell who is in government work at Talladega, Ala., and Keith Bell, who is employed in the furniture department of the local Montgomery Ward & Co. store.

Nazis' Position in Russia Seen As Paradox Case

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

Bad as the Russian military position is—and the danger of a Nazi breakthrough on the southern front is grave—we have been a paradoxical case in which the great gains Hitler is making coupled with their cost in blood and materiel, are likely to contribute heavily to his undoing provided the Allies can create a diversion by establishing the second front.

The Nazi leader's success depends upon his ability to smash the Red army in the crucial approaches to the Caucasus in short time.

The Nazi lines of communication already are badly extended and the further the invaders drive the more confused will become their already seriously complicated transport problem.

Also the supreme effort Hitler is making for a quick killing is costing so many of his best troops, and wrecking so much equipment, that he can not indefinitely stand the strain. He will have to slow down and in the not distant future he will be fit game for a smashing Russian counter-offensive.

In short, so long as the Bolshevists can continue their fierce resistance, effecting withdrawals to fresh positions without breaking their line, the territory they abandon may prove to be the ace which will catch Hitler. He has achieved much already but he has a long, hard road to travel. Stalingrad is close to 200 bloody miles further east, Astrakhan about double that distance.

The Nazi chief now is far in advance of the supply line which he established during the winter, and he is up among the Russian wide-gauge railways over which the narrower gauge German trains couldn't run, even if the roads still were serviceable. But the Fuehrer's troubles go back further than that.

Louis Lochner, Associated Press Berlin bureau chief who, now home after five months interment in Germany, disclosed that Hitler allowed the railway transportation of the country to go to pot because he was banking on the great military highways he was building. The highways would have been grand if the Fuehrer had won the war over night as he expected, but he didn't.

Now Hitler's home transport is in a bad way and is rapidly growing worse. Thus he hasn't even proper facilities to start his supplies out of Germany for the front, to say nothing of handling them in Russia.

We are told that Marshal Timoshenko hasn't yet been forced to call on great reserves which are being held for a counter-blow. The Russians are able to throw fresh troops against Hitler when he is deep in Soviet territory and hampered by disrupted communications, they may be able to inflict a disaster on him. It is reported that this is the strategy the Muscovites have been pursuing.

The Reds are insisting urgently, however, that to bring about this happy position it is necessary to establish a second front forthwith in western Europe.

There can be little question that this is the right moment to establish the second front, provided it's feasible. That's for the allied command to say. Lacking the ability of the Russians to hold their line and counter-attack must remain in doubt.

THIS IS WHY WHISKY KICKS

Stanford Medical School Discovers Reason for Difference in Liquor Potential.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Wide World Science Editor

NEW YORK — The reason why the alcohol in whisky and gin has a bigger kick for most drinkers than the same amount of alcohol in wine has been found at Stanford university school of medicine.

Cream of tartar in the wine makes the difference. That chemical slows the passage of alcohol from the stomach to the blood. The kick of drinking comes only after the alcohol reaches the blood and brain.

Whisky and gin alcohol, unimpeded by cream of tartar, piles up more quickly in the blood. Cream of tartar—hydrogen potassium bitartrate—a natural part of grape juice in wine making most of it comes out in the form of precipitate known as argols, which is the principal industrial source of cream of tartar. A trace remains in the wine.

The report is made in Science, official organ of American Science, by Doctors Henry Newman and Mason Abramson. They found that Scotch, pure alcohol, bourbon and gin alcohol were absorbed into the blood two or three times faster than alcohol from port and burgundy.

When a little of the natural wine material was added to the hard drinks, they were slowed down to the wine rate.

However, the Stanford experimentors found also that men differ, because of the way their stomachs act with alcohol. One man just naturally absorbed hard liquor alcohol not a bit faster than wine. His blood took the alcohol from bourbon whisky slower than from either of the wines.

The explanation in his case was that alcohol interfered with the normal movements of his stomach. This effect was so marked that alcohol nauseated him.

Cream of tartar is what chemists call a buffer. It changes acidity. The Stanford physicians drew the kick out of the hard drinks by using an amount of the buffer that would give whisky exactly the same acidity as wine.

Ozark Preacher Hikes 4,000 Miles A Year

Wide World Features

SCHELL CITY, Mo.—Down in the rugged wilderness of southern Missouri, the Rev. Guy Howard, wiry, deeply-tanned "Walkin' Preacher of the Ozarks," hikes 4,000 miles a year carrying Christianity into the hills.

The weary trek costs the doughty minister a dozen pairs of shoes annually and returns the dubious monetary award of $14 a month. It also has brought him the love and respect of thousands of Ozarkians who greet him as Brother Howard—with emphasis on "Brother."

This is a striking contrast to the unhappy situation in which he found himself shortly after his entry into the Ozarks 10 years ago. Then a suspicious folk greeted the outsider by burning to the ground the schoolhouse through which he had hoped to find a way into their hearts.

The Rev. Howard—he wasn't "Brother" then—sat on a stump and sadly surveyed the ruins. He vowed the school must be rebuilt.

When the county voters refused to approve a bond issue, Howard bought what material and equipment he could with his meager $65 monthly salary as a teacher and prepared to build the schoolhouse himself.

The hill folk then realized this fighting minister, from the outside was in dendly earnest. They gathered for a "working," provided the other necessary equipment, and built the preacher's schoolhouse. He, in turn deeded it to the county.

Thereafter the Rev. Howard not only was accepted but welcomed in the Ozark hills.

An elderly physician whom Howard always had admired advised him to get into his present work.

Howard, just a youth then, had delivered an address in his home

"BROTHER" HOWARD
No hillbilly hokum

community in Iowa and the old doctor asserted it was the best speech he ever had heard.

"You should be a minister," he said, "but rise above the petty prejudices of a community and go out into the world to preach."

Started From Scratch

Twenty years later Howard took his advice. Arriving in the Ozarks with only 95 cents, he made arrangements to teach in the school while doing his missionary work.

The walking preacher, now 50 years old, is so busy that he averages only one night a week with his family.

Besides having four part-time churches, he preaches in schoolhouses, homes and forest arbors. He estimates he has conducted 600 funerals and baptized 500 persons—his baptismal font, more often than not, being a clear, rock-bottomed Ozark stream. He lost count of the weddings a long time ago.

His annual trek takes him from the "tourist" concrete highways to the wagon-wheel trails of the inner hills. From narrow paths to trails of his own making over rough, jagged hills, through lowlands, through mountain streams.

The Ozark people have an uncanny way of obtaining news, the minister related. "When I arrive at a hillman's home I tell the family I'm preaching that night down in the hollow and the people are there. They have their own way of spreading word."

He refused to go on a radio program in New York recently, because, he declared indignantly to the broadcasters, the radio writers' conceptions of his hill people was a lot of "hillbilly hokum," and he wasn't going to "ridicule my people."

The broadcast was reset for the next week with the Rev. Howard himself penciling the new script.

The steely-eyed little preacher is not afraid of anyone or anything. He has slept peacefully in the homes of Ozarks characters, whose reputations put fear into the hearts of other hill folk.

His crusades have brought about the closing of several Ozark roadside taverns which operated outside the law. Tavern operators respect his ultimatum to "clean up or close up."

No Collection Plate

Most of his school salary—when he's teaching—and any other occasional outside income does to buy medical supplies for Ozark children. Bibles and textbooks. He does not allow the collection plate to be passed at his services, but welcomes contributions from outside sources to further his work. He speaks to from 70,000 to 80,000 persons a year and claims to know 100,000 personally.

The plain speaking little preacher is an ordained minister of the Christian church but has his own creed and aims.

"I go where I am needed most. I have tried to carry Christianity to people who thirst for it. I would rather preach before my people here than the richest church in any city.

"I have found my people and my work. There is much to be done here. Out of such communities came Christ, Abraham Lincoln, Alvin York and Douglas MacArthur."

Galion Nursery School Is Praised by Welfare Dept.

Special to The Star

GALION, July 16—As the first nursery school in Ohio operating under the new system of the child protection program in cooperation with the civilian defense council, the Galion Nursery school has received commendation from Mrs. Marion L. Brucker, district supervisor of the department of public welfare. Mrs. Brucker recently visited the school and in her later report said that she was impressed with the aid the school is giving mothers engaged in war work.

The school, situated at the East building, is being watched with interest by Ohio nursery school teachers, directors and supervisors, because of the need of such projects in the state, especially in defense areas. At the present time there are 20 children enrolled and at the meeting of the council this week two more children's names were approved. There still are vacancies for eight more children.

Mrs. Sarah Beelge is the local supervisor.

Naval Enlistment Ruling Is Changed

The United States navy now may accept for enlistment men who already have received orders to report for induction in the United States army, according to an official announcement received this week by C. F. Sliber, recruiting officer at the Marion area station in the post office building.

The only restriction is that a prospective army inductee must report at the navy recruiting station here at least 72 hours before induction.

Men who report at the station for enlistment must, if at all possible, have a certified copy of their birth certificate.

Crestline Missionary Society Hears Report

Special to The Star

CRESTLINE, July 16—Mrs. C. H. Lange gave a report of the missionary board meeting in Bucyrus in June when the Missionary society of Trinity Lutheran church met with Rev. and Mrs. Lange Tuesday. Mrs. Walter Mooney was associate hostess.

Rev. Lange conducted the devotions. The topic was conducted by Mrs. Lange.

Guests were Mrs. William Koch of Struthers, Mrs. Sam Brown and Miss Matilda Klahn.

"Thanks," Soldier Writes for Party As Selectees Left

The send-off party given a group of Marion men who left on June 17 for induction at Fort Hayes was highly appreciated by the men, according to a "thank you" letter written to The Star today by one of its former composing room employes, Harmon Chapman, now stationed at Camp Pickett, Va.

Private Chapman, one of the men in the group, wrote as follows:

"Having been so busy since the day of induction, I almost forgot the things that I should have attended to long ago. In this respect I'm referring to the request of the boys from Marion that left and were inducted on June 17, 1942, that I write and express their gratitude and thanks to all those who participated in the swell send-off for them and to especially thank the ladies of the canteen for the cigarets and treats."

Several Marion men have been assigned to Camp Pickett, according to the letter. Private Chapman has been assigned to a heavy weapons company using Garand rifles, 30 cal. machine guns and 81 mm mortars. He is in the first platoon and in command of the third squad a machine gun unit.

Private Chapman was at one time a member of Co. D of the National Guard of Marion and wrote that "my experience with Co. D is coming in handy."

Marion Girl Scouts Hunting for New Home After Sale of "Little House"

Must Move by Aug. 1, But Can't Locate New Quarters; Present Building Used Two Years.

If Girl Scouts of Marion and members of the Girl Scout Council are looking a bit downhearted these days, there's a good reason. The "Little House" at 124 East Columbia street has been sold and must be vacated by Aug. 1. The big problem now is to find some place to move the Girl Scout belongings accumulated since the Little House was started back in 1940.

Much has been accomplished by the Scouts since their occupation of the Little House two years ago, and the "good times" the headquarters provided will be memories to linger long in the minds of the girls.

When the Little House was made available to the Scouts two years ago they set about immediately to make improvements. A group donned slacks and work togs and painted the building, with the help of the city firemen the place was papered, firemen wired the building for electricity, the girls graded and planted the lawn, shrubbery was planted, a picket fence erected, and the interior was given a homelike atmosphere with drapes made and hung by the girls, and other home furnishings donated by parents and friends.

The house provided an office for Miss Edith Treat, Girl Scout director, a place for troop meetings, troop committee meetings, council meetings, leaders' sessions, special parties, storage quarters for day and established camp supplies and provided space for classes in child care and homemaking.

Members of the executive committee are meeting daily in a frantic effort to find quarters by Aug. 1 and planning for the actual moving are members of the Little House committee. The executive committee is composed of Mrs. E. O. Smith, commissioner, Mrs. J. Wendell Wiant, Mrs. Ellis Houghton, Miss Ruth Kramer and Mrs. J. E. Oliphant. The Little House committee includes Mrs. Ellis Houghton and Mrs. Ray King, co-chairman, Mrs. F. L. Thomas, Mrs. R. G. Donley, Mrs. Clifford M. Howser and Mrs. J. E. Oliphant.

168 Divorce Actions Decided, Increase of Nine Over Preceding Year.

Civil judgments totaling $100,229.59 were granted in the Marion county common pleas court during the year ending June 30, according to a report filed with the department of state by County Clerk of Courts Elmer E. Smith.

The judgments were in 19 foreclosure and equity cases involving $78,888.38 and in 43 other cases involving $21,341.21, according to the report. In the preceding year $54,394.27 was granted in 96 civil and foreclosure cases.

The court decided 168 divorce cases during the year, nine more than the preceding year, 17 on charges of wilfull absence, nine charging extreme cruelty, 139 on gross neglect of duty and three on imprisonment.

In 44 cases the divorces were granted husbands and in 102 the decrees were given the wives. Seven cases filed by husbands and 16 brought by wives were dismissed. In ten cases fathers were granted custody of the children and in 44 suits the custody was given the mothers. Alimony or other payment was granted in 53 suits for divorce, 27 more than in the year ending June, 1941.

The report shows 83 divorce cases pending as of June 30, 77 charging gross neglect, two adultery and four wilfull absence. On July 1, 1941, there were 57 divorce suits pending.

The court disposed of 390 civil cases and 23 criminal cases, of which 15 civil actions and two criminal cases were taken to the court of appeals. On June 30 there were 256 civil cases and 20 criminal cases pending, three of the civil cases in the court of appeals. On June 30, 1941 there were 282 civil cases and 13 criminal cases pending on the court docket.

Costs paid in criminal cases totaled $39.62. Grand jury fees amounted to $348.90 and petit jury fees in civil cases totaled $1,100.26. Figures on the 1941 report show $1,451.20 in petit jury fees and $407.86 in grand jury fees.

Atley Donald Scatters Four Hits As Yankees Whitewash Indians, 4-0

Mel Harder or Al Smith To Face Ernie Bonham in Second Game Today.

To cling to their eastern trip .666 winning pace, Cleveland's Indians must sweep the next two games from the mighty New York Yankees.

The Bronx Bombers, propelled by the puzzling slants of Atley Donald, whitewashed the Indians yesterday 4 to 0 in a series opener, and crowded the Tribesmen two full games behind the second place Red Sox.

Manager Lou Boudreau, a bit worried about the Yanks because "They're getting great pitching now to go with their fielding," faces the law of averages today in the person of Ernie Bonham.

The big right-hander, who won nine straight games, only to lose the next four, is long overdue to take No. 10.

Smith and Harder Ready.

Both Al Smith and Mel Harder are ready to oppose him.

But Bonham couldn't be any tougher today than Donald was yesterday. He didn't allow an Indian to touch the keystone sack. Facing only 31 batters, he fanned five and walked one. Four Redskin singles were well scattered.

The Yanks kept chipping away at Chubby Dean whose only satisfaction in his fifth defeat was that the powerful Yanks never got more than one run in an inning. Their four markers came in the second, third, fifth and seventh frames.

The longest hit was a Charley Keller's triple which Phil Rizzuto's single converted into the initial tally.

Bad blood has been flowing between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Chicago Cubs for two or more years in one of the most vicious feuds in baseball annals and the situation is getting stormier.

Yesterday the boys were so busy throwing bean balls at each other they almost forgot the ball game, but the Dodgers, operating in their element, captured a 10-5 verdict from the confused Cubs, who made five errors and used five pitchers to five 13 hits.

Case History

One version of the trouble between the clubs is that it started when Hugh Casey of the Dodgers threw at Pitcher Clyde Passeau of the Cubs a couple of years ago. It has been kept fanned white-hot ever since with knock-down pitches, high sliders, name-calling and even harsh front office relations.

Through it all Passeau has managed to keep the upper hand on the pitching mound, winning seven and losing only twice to Brooklyn—till yesterday.

He was pelted for seven hits in 2 1/3 innings, giving four runs, and couldn't get the ball near the plate when Hiram Bithorn replaced him. Brooklyn turned its baiting on the rookie and had him in such a frenzy that when he, too, had to be removed in the fifth inning he threw the ball at the Brooklyn benchwarmers.

Kirby Higbe was working for the Dodgers for the fourth time in a week, attained his tenth victory.

Laabs Brings In 5

This encounter dwarfed other developments of the day in the major leagues, although Chet Laabs of the St. Louis Browns, currently on a batting spree, attracted attention at Philadelphia by driving in five runs as the Browns beat the Athletics, 7-4, in a night game. He hit a homer, his 13th of the year, with the bases loaded in the second inning and then in the third frame lined to the corner of center field in Shibe Park and was thrown out at the plate trying to get four bases on it.

The Boston Red Sox split with the Chicago White Sox, Tex Hughson beat unlucky Ed Smith in the opener, 10-1, for Smith's 9th setback. The Chisox took the nightcap, 11-8.

Washington nosed out the Detroit Tigers, 4-3, in 11 innings in a night game.

Rip Sewell pitched six-hit ball and Vince DiMaggio hit a three-run double to spark Pittsburgh to a 6-2 triumph over the New York Giants. The St. Louis Cardinals swept a doubleheader from the Phils, 7-3 and 9-4.

Cincinnati and the Boston Braves divided their double bill. Bucky Walters won the opener for the Reds, 6-2. Manny Salvo hurled the Braves to victory in the second game, 7-2.

On the Local Front

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

MARION is making a desperate bid to assure its football idol, Jack Stephenson, a place on the Chicago Tribune's charity All-Star football game to be played in Soldiers' field, Chicago, the night of Aug. 28.

Petitions are on display in many of the leading stores throughout the downtown district. Many others will be added today and Friday.

Yesterday was the first day the petitions were in actual circulation. An estimated 500 signatures already have been obtained and many more thousand are desired by the committee sponsoring Fat Jack's local campaign.

Up to midnight last night 1,976 votes had been cast for Stephenson, placing him tenth among 28 tackles eligible for the team.

Jack, as many local fans remember, captained Paul Brown's first Ohio State football juggernaut to a second-place tie with the Michigan eleven in the Big 10 standings. The Bucks of 1941 dropped only one game, a 13-12 loss to the mighty Northwestern team, and tied the Michigan outfit, 20-20, in the season's finale. It was in the latter game that Stephenson was most outstanding. He stopped repeated thrusts of big Bob Westfall, an All-American choice on virtually every accepted team in the country.

If Stephenson is elected to the team, and his prospects are rosy at this writing, he will be the first Marion youth to make the all star squad in its nine-year history. Election to this team by sport fans is a fitting climax to the brilliant athletic career of the son of Dr. and Mrs. O. G. Stephenson of 488 South Vine street who has written so many "firsts" into local sports annals that no other Marion youth is likely to equal in years to come.

All Marion is asked to participate in this poll. Every man, woman and child can take an active part in placing Fat Jack on the select list. Get your votes in now by adding your name to the lengthy lists on display in downtown stores or by sending your ballot direct to the Chicago Tribune All-Star Editor, Chicago, Ill. All-Star voting ends midnight, July 26.

Whirlaway Now No. 1 Turf Money Winner of World

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 16—A stretch-running flash of lightning known as Whirlaway today loomed as the first half-million-dollar winning prospect in turf history.

Fresh from his record-smashing triumph yesterday in the sachusetts $50,000-added Handicap, Whirly was pointed today by his trainer, Ben Jones, for the $25,000 added Arlington Handicap at Chicago's Arlington Park on Aug. 1.

The smashing victory that Whirlaway, owned by Warren Wright, scored in the Suffolk Down feature boosted the horse's winnings to $454,366—or $16,636 more than the previous top earnings mark, amassed by Seabiscuit.

CHAMPION COPIC AND JANET SHOCK NEAR GOLF FINALS

Loom as Likely Rivals for Ohio Women's Title on Friday.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 16—Unless there's a decided upset in today's 18-hole semi-final matches, defending champion Neoma Copic of Toledo and Janet Shock of Dayton, the 1938 and 1940 queen, will meet Friday over 36 holes for the twenty-third Ohio Women's Golf title.

Today's schedule sends Miss Copic, winner of the 1939 state public links crown, against Miss Peggy Kirk, 19-year-old Findlay girl, while Miss Shock, veteran of the tournament wars, faces 17-year-old Carol Lee Sherrets of Coshocton.

Miss Copic and Miss Shock were overwhelming favorite, despite the fine play exhibited by their opponents in winning opening and quarter-final matches.

In yesterday's matches, Miss Copic won a two-up decision over 18-year-old Carol Effinger of Tiffin. Miss Kirk blasted Mrs. Edwin Tasker of Toledo by 5 and 4. Miss Shock defeated Mrs. James Platt of Dayton, one up in 19 holes, and Miss Sherrets annexed a similar verdict over Mrs. P. J. (Thelma) Linster of Mansfield, state publinks queen the last two years.

Tournament experience is expected to be the deciding factor in the semi-finals. Miss Copic, aged 24, has been playing in the chips are down events for six years, while Miss Shock, aged 23, has been at it longer than that.

The Shock-Platt match was the feature of the quarter-finals, extending the friendly feud between the two Dayton stars. For six straight years the two have met in the finals of the Dayton tourney, each winning three decisions, while yesterday's one-up victory—due to a stymie on the extra hole—was Miss Shock's third in as many starts against Mrs. Platt in state tourney play.

HE'S VALUABLE NOW

The boy and the dog live on the edge of the Plandome golf course. Dickie finds it quite easy to dispose of them.

Ryder Cup Team Favored To Win Detroit Tourney

Favorites Lack Only Superior Background in Previous International Competition.

DETROIT — Craig Wood's American Ryder Cup squad, dream team of golf headed by Ben Hogan, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson, would seem to have everything it needs to whip Walter Hagen's challengers this week-end—everything but a superior background in the one-time international competition. The two-day Red Cross match is scheduled over the long Oakland Hills course starting Saturday.

In six matches against picked professionals of Great Britain before the war and in two Ryder Cup charity events here, the present personnel of the cup squad has accounted for 28 victories, either individual or foursome, against 22 defeats. Five matches were halved. The challengers, meanwhile, possess 26 victories, only 10 defeats and two ties.

Of those participating in foreign or domestic competition, only two are undefeated—Hogan, Mr. Moneybags of the tournament circuit and newly crowned Hale America National Open champion from Hershey, Pa., and Dick Metz, a cup squad castoff from Oak Park, Ill., who was quickly snapped up by the challenge team.

Pinch-Hitting for Hugh Fullerton

BOSTON, July 16—(Wide World)—Those red-faced guys around your village today are the experts who said Whirlaway wasn't a great hoss because he had only one run in him in any race and that wasn't good enough to knock off the speed colts. Well, the charts won't show it, but Mr. Bigtail ran the second quarter of yesterday's Massachusetts in 23 3/5 seconds. And if you think that's a soft touch, try it yourself. Incidentally, Warren Wright, who only owns Whirly, didn't make the trip to Suffolk to see his colt break the Biscuit's record because he wasn't sure Whirly'd win. Listen, Warren, he would have won this one if they'd have put an outboard motor and five gallons of gas in the others.

BATTLE ROYAL TO FEATURE MAT CARD

Fishbaugh Signs 6 Stalwarts for Armory Show.

One of the greatest ring attractions of the current summer wrestling series matching six of Promoter Les Fishbaugh's top grunt and groan aces is up for decision in tonight's Armory arena card, slated to start at 8:30.

A battle royal card pitting Rufus Jones, the Black Panther, Jackie Steele, Ivan Kalimkoff, is the feature event.

Any pair of the above six could be matched in a main-go bout. Election of Rufus Jones and the Black Panther to the six-man brawl assures of a great bout. This pair has appeared here several times in recent weeks in a series of grudge battles. So far the Black Panther, Toledo restaurant king, has held the upper hand.

Since last appearing here, Billings, another of the featured performers, has defeated Farmer Jones, the Arkansas pig producer.

Madsen, the lanky Danish youth, has always been a popular choice of the local crowd. Likewise, Steele has been one of the better performers to appear here.

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 16—Charleston's Mid-Atlantic league lead dropped to three games last night as Springfield defeated the Senators 4 to 3, while second-place Erie was taking a 7-3 decision from Canton.

Dayton and Zanesville divided a double-header, Zanesville taking the opener, 5 to 3, and the Ducks the nightcap, 7 to 1, behind the four-hit pitching of Rollie Marquardt, who struck out 11 men in scoring his 10th victory of the season.

STRANAHAN PITTED AGAINST UNKNOWN IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

16 Players, Including Nine from Cincinnati, Still in Competition.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 16 — The Ohio Amateur Golf tournament settles into the semi-serious business today of determining who has the inner strength to see it through. Defending Champion Frank Stranahan of the Toledo weightlifter, or maybe one of nine Cincinnatians among the 16 players left in the tourney.

One possibility, and 19-year-old Frank is up against him in this morning's round, is the man nobody knows under the name of L. B. Isch of Cincinnati.

This pseudonym, playing his pseudo-golf came through yesterday's second round with a 3 and 2 victory over Bill Roach, pretty good local boy. It is said that he could beat Stranahan and thus move into the afternoon's quarter-finals.

Maurice McCarthy, who stretched his usually steady skill to eke out a win over Neil Ransick 1935 champion, on the 21st hole, also could come through for his fourth title. McCarthy meets Bob Myers of Cincinnati, a Dartmouth basketball star, today.

Other pairings: Harold Paddock of Cleveland plays Tom Whiteway, also of Cleveland (Whiteway beat Bill McCabe of Middletown 8 and 4).

Doug Hill of Cincinnati meets Dave Moes of Lima who downed Bill Clens of Cincinnati one up.

Pete Sohl of Columbus meets Elmer Tunker of Cincinnati, and Pete Stuntebeck of Cincinnati plays Barney Hunt of Columbus.

GENE SARAZEN'S GOLF CHART

By GENE SARAZEN
Former National Open Champion

Golf is largely a mental game. You can trace most of your bad shots to careless lapses. Perhaps your grip wasn't right or you took too full a swing or you didn't address the ball properly.

Take the grip: the club is in the palm of the left hand in the widely used overlapping grip and three knuckles should show. The right hand fingers are on the shaft with the little finger overlapping the forefinger of the left hand. The V formed by the thumb and forefinger should point to the right shoulder. The backswing should be slow with the left arm straightened. The right knee is firm on the backswing and the left firm at impact. At the top of the backswing the left knee should bend slightly towards the right. Weight should be shifted easily during the pivot. Wood shots should be hit slightly on the upswing, iron shots on the downswing.

If you'll learn the proper stance, pivot, swing and position of the ball, hands and knees for the various shots you can cut strokes off your score. Here's a chart which should help you:

CLUBS	STANCE	BALL	SWING	PIVOT	HANDS
WOODS	Square. Feet parallel to line of flight, slightly wider than shoulder width.	The position of the ball is in line with the left heel.	Full. Slow backswing until, with wrists cocked, club shaft is parallel with ground.	Full, easy pivot. Weight evenly distributed at start of backswing.	Hands low, close to body. Just before impact, right hand and arm take charge and wrists uncock.
1 & 2 IRONS	Feet closer together.	Slightly ahead of midway between feet.	Slightly short of full swing.	Same as for woods.	Fingers, wrists, forearms supply power. Firmness required. Left wrist and forearm guide direction. No body sway.
3 & 4 IRONS	Slightly open stance, with right foot in advance of left. Feet closer.	Midway between feet.	Three-quarter swing. Hit descending blow.	Slightly less than full pivot.	Same as for long irons.
5 & 6 IRONS	More open. With shorter club, stand nearer ball.	Slightly toward right foot.	More compact swing, with shorter arc.	Somewhat reduced pivot.	Same as for long irons.
7 & 8 IRONS	Open stance. Stand close to ball.	Off right foot.	Same swing, but more upright.	More reduced pivot.	Same. Strike ball before hitting turf.
9 IRON	Open stance.	Opposite right toe.	Upright, half-swing.	Slight pivot.	Hands close to body. Hit firm descending blow. Don't try to scoop ball up.
CHIP	Stand near ball, feet close together. Right foot slightly in advance of left.	Off right heel.	Easy. Shot distance determines length backswing. Hit crisp shot, follow through.	None	Arms close to sides. Only wrist and forearm used to swing club.
TRAP	Feet close together, stance slightly open.	Opposite left heel.	Fairly full swing. Hit ball with slightly open face. Take club back on the outside.	Almost full pivot. Length of shot determines power and amount of sand to be taken.	Hit firmly. Take sand behind and underneath ball. Hit through shot and follow thru.
PUTT	Take comfortable stance that leaves you relaxed. Brace right elbow to body.	Have face of putter look at hole through out swing.	Slow, firm sweep. Putt distance determines length of backswing.	None. Body held steady	Hit putt firmly. No arm movement.

FANS HELP DECIDE DISPUTED RULING

Take Hand in Milwaukee-Kansas City Game.

By The Associated Press

Even the fans had a hand in proceedings last night as the struggling Milwaukee Brewers pulled a game out of the fire against Kansas City's American association pace setters.

The score was 3 to 2. The fans entered into things in the ninth inning. With the score tied at two-all, relief pitcher Charley Wensloff hurled three straight balls. On the fourth pitch pinch runner Vandenberg strolled home from third.

He said Umpire Johnson's ruling was not clear, that he understood it was a ball, forcing him home. The umpire said something, but so did the fans, swarming onto the field to emphasize their opinions. Order restored, Vandenberg went back to third. The next pitch was a ball and Vandenberg scored the winning tally for the Brewers.

Louisville broke a six-game losing streak by defeating Indianapolis 5 to 4, and regained sixth place when Toledo lost to Columbus and Harry Brecheen, 6 to 0. Minneapolis whipped St. Paul in 10 innings, 5 to 4.

Toledo, after losing its league start, came back to play the Great Lakes Naval Training station in an exhibition and handed the Sailors their eighth defeat in 50 starts, 7 to 3.

FARM POND CAMPAIGN

The Ohio division of conservation and natural resources has started a campaign to increase the number of ponds on farms throughout the state, Commissioner Don Waters reported today. The conservation commission has appropriated $25,000 for a Pittman-Robertson farm pond project.

With this money, the division will select sites of dams, furnish necessary engineering plans, provide certain materials and construction equipment and plant fenced areas around the ponds with trees and shrubs.

This program of farm-pond building is anchored on the rock of sound conservation practice. Among the benefits resulting from numerous farm ponds will be:

1. Drought insurance for the farmer.

2. Improvement in conditions for wildlife maintenance and restoration.

3. Restoration of the ever-dropping sweet water table.

4. Flood control. If every farm in every county had run-off water storage facilities and utilized them to check the outflow of surface water at the proper time, the flood problem would not be nearly as severe as it now is.

5. Erosion control. Farmers who find their top soil now washing down and down to the sea can, with pond facilities, check this by reclaiming the silt from the pond bottom at regular periods.

6. Recreational facilities. Almost any farm pond, properly placed and constructed will grow fish. All make good swimming holes. All provide water and cover for our wildlife as well as water for domestic animals.

7. Food production. Fish and wildlife, produced at little cost, always are welcome on the farmer's table.

8. Farm ponds reduce taxes. The General Code of Ohio, Section No. 474-1 to 5 and 6443-1 to 3, provides for such tax reductions.

The conservation of soil and water, actually are the fundamentals of wildlife conservation. Wildlife will thrive if given the proper environment and protection against predators, human and animal. Soil and water conservation, in improving the environment for wildlife, also increases the carrying capacity of the land.

The first ponds to be built will be demonstration projects. They will be constructed through the co-operation of sportsmen's clubs, farm organizations and land owners.

JUNE ARRESTS

Game protectors of the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources made 153 arrests with 153 convictions for fishing and hunting law violations during June. Fines totaled $2,030 and costs $787. Justices of the peace hearing the cases remitted $421 in fines and $20 in costs.

90 BASS IN THREE DAYS

If you are not interested in a place where you can catch 90 bass in three days, don't read any farther.

Robert Phillips, Columbus angler, and explorer of Ohio's fishing places and methods, caught 90 bass in three days at Senecaville lake.

The bass struck at almost anything you could throw at them. After Phillips tossed plugs at them until he tired of that sport, he used live minnows hoping to connect with some of the famous large crappies in the lake. Not only did he hook several of them but he caught several carp as well on "Baltimore minnows," which is a dignified name for carp minnows. The lake is alive with carp and their off spring afford the best food for the many bass in the lake. Phillips caught several bass on these minnows and he caught them on worms, too.

Of course Phillips didn't exceed the legal creel limit. All the smallest bass were turned back and that means that most of them are still in the lake because they ranged in length from 11½ inches down.

Will these small bass, which the lake has so many of, grow into lunkers? Spreading out over more than 3,000 acres of what was once fertile farm land, as Seneca lake does, and having an abundance of carp whose offspring supply an endless source of forage for the bass, there is no reason to deny that the more predatory fish will thrive and grow.

Seneca lake is still young and undeveloped. Given a few years the enormous population of the slower growing species, such as the bass and bluegills, should equal the size of the crappies, proportionately, which have grown to such unusual size there.

FISHING HINTS

The sportsmen's grapevine is whispering of good catches of bass in the Scioto river by a new system. The system, newly discovered, is to troll a Jake's bait or Hawaiian wiggler on a cane pole or fly rod as you walk along the shorelines fringes of weeds. These lures, being nearly weedless, may be worked close to the open water edge of the vegetation with telling results.

Additional fishing lakes created in the old established state-owned lakes by the removal of excess cattails, lily pads and other aquatic vegetation, are beginning to show their value in the form of bass and bluegills, which may be seen in the clear water of the "pot holes" which are kept clear by the uncut vegetation bordering them.

Careful approach to these open areas and the dropping of fly or rubber spider on the quiet water is certain to produce some fair catches of these fish.

Channel catfish may be found in varying abundance in most of the 500 lakes, ponds and canals that are open to public fishing in Ohio this year.

Production of approximately 5,000 tons of tin a year by dattining old cans by an electro-chemical process has been planned in England.

TO NEGOTIATE NEW CONTRACT

Vinson Declares House Naval Committee Will Insist on Economy Move.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 16—Chairman Vinson, Democrat of Georgia, said today the house naval committee would insist that the government renegotiate army and navy contracts to recapture commission fees paid to war brokers.

He said the action would save millions of dollars, "break up this commission racket," and end the impression among many manufacturers that they must have so-called influence boys, the war brokers, as their sales agents in Washington.

Vinson's disclosure came as the committee resumed its detailed inquiry into the operations of the commission agents. Sitting in on the investigation are representatives of the department of justice and the army and the navy.

Thomas Hinkel, committee counsel, said the committee was going deeper into the affairs of William Scrimgeour & Sons, who operate on a contingent fee basis and who furnish so-called engineering services in addition to their sales activities.

In a statement read to the committee yesterday, Hinkel declared that "on naval contracts alone since September, 1939, this outfit has received over $200,000 in addition it has acted as prime contractor on certain navy contracts with a resulting profit to itself of over $150,000 since September 1939."

The committee concentrated yesterday on the activities of a Washington firm of three self-styled "sales engineers," A. P. Shirley as a one-time army major who said his income in 1929 was between $7,500 and $10,000, and F. B. Olcott and F. C. Nichols, both former civilian employes of the navy, the former at $4,600 a year and the latter at $4,000.

They acknowledged receiving a profit of $208,211.94 each from their fees for the first six months of this year. Vinson asserted that their testimony and documents introduced by committee investigators showed that they had an inside track in obtaining contracts at the navy department for manufacturers.

J. B. Decker, vice president and general manager of the Triumph Explosive Co. of Elkton, Md., said the Shirley-Olcott-Nichols Co. held a contract entitling them to receive a commission of one per cent for obtaining government war work at plant built with federal funds and operated by triumph for the government.

PERSISTENT SELLING FORCES WHEAT DOWN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 16—Persistent selling pressure throughout the session forced wheat and other grains lower today.

Anti-inflation talk in Washington, weakness in the cotton market, and excellent weather for harvesting in most areas combined to induce the liquidation. There was little mill buying to meet the selling pressure.

Wheat sold off a full cent in the first few minutes, staged a mild rally around mid-day and then backed down below the previous lows. Stop loss orders were caught on the late set-back, accelerating the downturn. Other grains moved in sympathy with the bread cereal.

WALL CATCHES FIRE

Fire was started between the outside and inside walls at the home of Charles Howard on Gurley avenue yesterday morning from a blow torch being used to burn paint off the house. Firemen from Central station answered the call. There was no damage.

The second largest church in America, L'Eglise de Notre Dame, in Montreal, Province of Quebec, has within its steeple the largest church bell on the continent.

One hundred years of controversy were required to settle a Missouri-Iowa boundary dispute caused by a shifting river course.

LIGHT STOCK PROFITS TAKEN

Fractional Declines Plentiful; Volume About Half That of Wednesday.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 16—The stock market lost some of its inflationary enthusiasm today and further light profits were cashed on the June-July bulge which put the averages up to the best levels since March.

While little in the way of weakness developed, and volume was about half that of Wednesday, minor fractional declines were plentiful.

Reports the administration might move for wage-price legislation chilled speculative spirits. Word "Little Steel" workers had been granted a 44-cent daily day boost left the market undisturbed. Simulting war news was lacking.

Among backward stocks were Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Westinghouse and Sears Roebuck. Resistant spots included U. S. Steel, Western Union and International Harvester.

The steel wage hoist, it was observed in Wall Street, was a bit under the prediction which had been made in a number of financial offices where it was expected the WLB might compromise on half the $1 amount asked by the unions.

Holders of oils noted the figures of the American Petroleum Institute disclosing stocks of finish and unfinished gasoline in the United States at the end of last week amounted to 85,658,000 barrels, a decrease of 1,356,000 from the preceding week.

WARFARE 'round the world calls for an army that can take care of itself in the water as well as on land. That's why, at Fort Bragg, N. C., the American Red Cross is training soldiers to be good swimmers and life savers. Here are some phases of the course.

ACCIDENT—A 10-man army boat is capsized, tossing its fully-equipped occupants into the water.

HELP—Comrades hit the water, are off to the rescue. Tests show uniforms increase, not reduce, buoyancy.

TOW 'EM IN—Here's the chin pull, recognized as best method for aiding a disabled person in the water.

FIREMAN'S CARRY—Rescuers reach shallow water. Head kept low hastens the return to natural breathing.

RESUSCITATION—Back on dry land, conventional methods of artificial respiration are used. In background are students—they'll demonstrate soon how well they've learned the lesson.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D

EVERYONE SEEMS to be reviewing H. L. Mencken's recently published Dictionary of Quotations on Historical Principles. Since this is the only dictionary of quotations in which I have ever appeared, I have been very much interested in them, although I don't especially like what one reviewer said, "Quotations are included if made by anybody, including the cop on the corner, Shakespeare, and Ibid." I don't mind being associated with the cop on the corner, but I don't like that "anybody and ibid."

Sample Quotations

Mr. Mencken has always had a good nose for medical matters and from the Dictionary, I quote as follows:

"We are bound to our bodies like an oyster to its shell."—Plato.

"Dermatology is the best specialty. The patient never dies—and never gets well."

—Author unidentified.

"Nature, in the production of disease, is uniform and consistent to so much so that for the same disease in different persons the symptoms are for the most part the same, and the selfsame phenomena that you would observe in the sickness of a Socrates you would observe in the sickness of a simpleton."—Thomas Sydenham.

"Disease is very old and nothing about it has changed. It is we who change as we learn to recognize what was formerly imperceptible."—J. M. Charcot.

"Natural forces within us are the true healers of disease."

—Hippocrates.

"Because all the sick do not recover, therefore medicine is no art."—Cicero.

"Medicine is a conjectural art. It has almost no rules."

—Aulus Cornelius Celsus.

"Nearly all men die of their medicines, not of their diseases."

—Moliere.

Told by So-and-So

"There is a common argument that is both false and fatal. So-and-so, one hears, has been cured by such-and-such a treatment, and I have his disease; ergo, I must try this remedy. How many people die by reasoning thus! What they overlook is that the diseases which afflict us are as different as the features of our faces."—Voltaire.

"Take a dose of medicine once, and in all probability you will be obliged to take an additional 100 afterward."—Napoleon.

"Medicine is the only profession that labors incessantly to destroy the reason for its own existence."—James Bryce.

"Commonly, physicians, like beer, are best when they are old."

—Thomas Fuller.

"He's the best physician that knows the worthiness of the most medicines."

—Benjamin Franklin.

"You medical people will have more lives to answer for in the other world than even we generals."—Napoleon.

"Nature, time and patience are the three great physicians."

—H. G. Bohn.

Unidentified Cynic

"A physician is one who pours drugs of which he knows little into a body of which he knows less."—Author unidentified.

"A lucky physician is better than a good one."

—German proverb

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"ALL RIGHT," my husband said, "I'll cut along and deliver your message to Dad and your luncheon invitation to Lil and Miss Whitlock. May the messenger have a smoke first?"

"I think so," I told him smiling.

"The worst thing about this arrangement," he said, when we had run the gamut of our favorite topic—the children and their doings—"is that the dear Lord alone knows, and He won't tell, when you and I are going to get another chance to see each other.

"You're going to be tied up here with Katharine, and while I don't imagine old Harry will need to have his temperature taken every half hour, still I believe Dad will want me to stick around the Underwood menage rather closely. So where does that leave us?"

"I'll leave you to think out a name for that location," I said, "then you can send it over to me," and he pulled a dolorous face.

Search Continued

"Don't look so downcast, Sweet!" he adjured me when ready to start for the Underwood house, as he held me close in a parting embrace. "After all, we'll be only a few blocks apart, and I'll try to scale the wall occasionally."

But the promise gave me little comfort in the two days following his departure, days which saw Katharine leaving on her tragic quest each morning.

Deeply worried, I talked to my father about her, but to my surprise found that he wished her to keep on with her search.

"Action, even such disappointing toil as this is the best thing for her," he said. "Besides I am counting on action of some sort from the person or persons responsible for that lying screed to Katharine, for that is clearly a forgery. You must realize that."

"Of course," I murmured dully, but I was not as sure as I sounded. Then came a sudden conviction that my father knew something about Jack's plans which he was confiding to no one, something which made him so didactically certain the appeal Katharine had received apparently from her husband was not authentic.

"If a stranger asks to see you within the next few days," my father went on, "have the person wait until either I or someone I delegate for the task is in the next suite with that camouflaged door ajar, then admit the person, be on your guard, and speak loudly enough so that whoever is in the next suite can hear you easily."

"You seem very sure that I shall have a visitor," I said.

"I am sure," he replied. "Just be prepared for the call, and use that trained memory of yours to preserve every word of what is said. In case part of it can't be heard clearly in the next suite."

Something in his manner convinced me that he considered this expected call highly important, and thereafter I was actually jittery whenever my telephone rang, until I found the call was not to announce a stranger.

It was the third day after Katharine's arrival when the expected call materialized.

"Desk speaking, Mrs. Graham," the voice said. "A man is here who wishes to send a card up to you. Do you want it?"

"Yes, please, right away," I answered.

"I'll send the boy right up," he answered, and when I put the receiver down both my hands and knees were trembling.

I had them under control by the time the bell boy arrived, and I looked at the card he handed me.

Written rather indistinctly I read, "Mr. R. Hawes," and beneath the name was added, "Urgent, about J. Bickett."

The Stars Say—

For Friday, July 17

A very propitious and encouraging state of affairs is read from the day's lunar and mutual aspects, with much of a very progressive nature transpiring that might advance the most ambitious of objectives in business, private and public associations. All should be pushed with vigor and confidence and sturdy application but not to the extent of impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a very successful, active and productive year with much moving toward high goals by expansive and ambitious but well-executed programs and plans of action. This should attract influential persons and enhance personal prestige and popularity, but only if pursued with calm, conservatism and patience.

A child born on this day should be highly versatile and ambitious, with fine literary or professional ability. Its popularity and personality should assure a pleasant social life.
